Federation in Favor of Move To End Schism In Labor Ranks

Blames CIO for Split but Wants Committee Named

RETAINS OFFICERS

Schneider on Executive Board; Sheboygan Next Host

Manitowoc —(AP)— The Wisconsin State Federation of Labor placed the blame for the A. F. of L.-CIO split upon the CIO today and went on record as favoring appointment of a committee to discuss a basis for settlement.

The action came as a result of two peace resolutions offered by Dalton G. Johnson, Kenosha, who was denied a seat as a delegate early in the convention.

Secretary-Treasurer J. J. Handley told delegates Johnson had informed him in conversation the resolutions came from the Communist party.

From a seat in the visitors gallery, Johnson shouted: "That is incorrect."

The convention committee on adjustment recommended Johnson's resolution be substituted with a statement from the committee. The convention adopted the statement which follows in part:

See Move Against A. F. L.

"It is the firm belief of your committee that the most of these plans (resolutions) for establishing so-called unity are offered with the ulterior intention of falsely placing blame for the disunity upon the A. F. L.

"This maneuver has been so cleverly carried on so far that some of our own people have come to believe not only that the A. F. L. is to blame for the split, but now stands in the way of re-establishing unity. This is the exact reverse of the truth in the matter.

"The A. F. L. was ready and did discuss issues which resulted from the split."

The convention adopted the recommendation of the adjustment committee that because of "danger" which independent unions create for "legitimate labor unions," extermination of independent unions should be sought by "every legitimate union with every available bit of economic and political power in our command."

Reelect Ohl, Handley

Delegates reelected President Ohl, Jr., and Secretary-Treasurer John J. Handley, and voted to hold next year's convention in Sheboygan. Ohl was chosen delegate to the A. F. L. convention with Handley as alternate.

The following were elected to the federation's general executive board: Louis Butterfield, Sr., Green Bay; J. F. Friedrich, Milwaukee; Fred E. Gastrow, Madison; George B. Hanner, Milwaukee; William Nasgorsne, Milwaukee; Harold Newton, Kenosha; Raymond Richards, Wisconsin Rapids; George J. Schneider, Appleton; David Sigman, Two Rivers; William Sommers, Racine, and Arnold Zander, Madison.

In a brief address just before ending the convention sine die, President Ohl told the delegates that federation officers would make every effort to establish greater unity in the labor movement.

"Whenever those in opposition (to A. F. L.) can discuss a plan for unity on a basis laid down by this convention, you can be sure it will be done," Ohl said. "We shall not unite on a basis of conspiracy to destroy the A. F. L."

Hearing Feb. 1 on Road Reorganization Plan

Washington —(AP)—The interstate commerce commission reopened today the reorganization proceedings of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad company, and assigned a hearing for next Feb. 1.

The action was requested by a group of investors headed by F. W. Walker, vice president of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, which holds $80,000,000 of the road's securities. This group requested permission to submit a plan.

The commission stipulated that the plan must be submitted before Jan. 10.

The hearing will be conducted by Commissioner Claude A. Porter and Director Oliver E. Sweet.

Roosevelt Promises Less Federal Spending; Visits Yellowstone National Park

SHOOTS PRINCIPAL

Police at Toledo, Ohio, ascribed to "gangster hallucinations" the shooting of Miss June Mapes, 59, Arlington School principal, by Robert Snyder (above), 12, a pupil, who fled the school and attempted suicide after Miss Mapes fell wounded in her office.

Gardiner, Mont.— (AP) —President and Mrs. Roosevelt left their special train today and motored through Gardiner to start an all-day tour of Yellowstone National park.

The president was greeted by a crowd of several hundred at the Gardiner depot. He then headed for the Mammoth Hot Springs hotel about six miles away in the park, from which he planned to start the tour.

Acting Governor Hugh R. Adair and other state officials of Montana boarded the president's train at Livingston, Mont., and rode to Gardiner, where Senator James E. Murray and Representative James F. O'Connor also joined the party for the ride through Gardiner's decorated streets. Murray and O'Connor conferred briefly with Mr. Roosevelt before he left on the tour.

Meet Boettigers

After meeting Mr. and Mrs. John Boettiger of Seattle, son-in-law and daughter, and the latters' two children, Eleanor and Curtis Dall, the president and Mrs. Roosevelt planned to view the many natural formations at Mammoth.

Their motor route then carried them to Norris geyser basin to canyon and on to fishing bridge for luncheon.

They were to return to Canyon, drive, over Dunraven pass to view the buffalo herd, and visit Tower falls before returning to Mammoth around 4:15 P. M.

Tonight Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt will be the guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Nichols. He is president of the Yellowstone Park company.

Aboard Roosevelt Train Enroute to Seattle—(AP)—President Roosevelt began a weekend of sightseeing in Yellowstone National park today after six rear platform talks in Wyoming where he promised less federal spending and struck at those who give only "lip service" to government objectives.

Instead of reviving the supreme court issue as many had forecast he might do—at least indirectly—he talked thus far of better times, fewer people on relief, broad administration aims, electric power, and other less controversial subjects.

He also told an inquirer at one stop that he hoped the United States would stay out of war.

The presence of Senator O'Mahoney, foe of the defeated supreme court enlargement plan, in the welcoming group at Cheyenne and on the president's train across the state surprised some observers, but O'Mahoney considered it the "normal" thing to do. He told inquiring newspaper men he had no enmity toward Mr. Roosevelt and the latter

Alcatraz Warden Recovering From Felon's Attack

Life-Term Prisoner Is Placed in Solitary Confinement

San Francisco— (AP)— Burton E Phillips, life termer at Alcatraz federal prison, was in solitary confinement today while Warden James A. Johnston was recovering from injuries suffered when Phillips struck him down in a "one-man riot" in the prison's dining hall.

Prison officials did not reveal what further disciplinary measures would be taken against Phillips, sentenced to the San Francisco bay island penitentiary for kidnaping and bank robbery. The attack took place during Johnston's customary noon-day inspection of prisoners yesterday.

Only shortly before, the warden had prepared a statement disclosing a hundred convicts had been on "strike" and had been confined to their cells since Monday.

Not Seriously Injured

Bleeding from head and face injuries, the warden was taken to the prison hospital but later was removed to his home adjoining the prison. Dr. George Hess said his injuries apparently were not serious.

Johnston himself telephoned a report of the assault to the department of justice in Washington and then resumed charge through Deputy Warden Edward A. Miller.

The 100 strikers, Johnston said, apparently are making "an effort to draw attention to themselves and stampede the department of justice into giving them more privileges and paroles."

The warden was attacked as he walked down a line of prisoners.

Phillips suddenly stepped out of line behind him and felled him with a blow of his fist.

Reports Phillips kicked the warden after he was down could not be confirmed. James V. Bennett, director of the federal bureau of prisons, said at Kansas City, information received by him indicated the warden's injuries were the result of his fall.

Spanish Regime Breaks Up Plot

Reveals Vast Movement to Overthrow Madrid-Valencia Government

Madrid—(AP)—Government officials uprooting what was described as a vast counter-revolutionary movement to overthrow the Madrid-Valencia regime declared today its ramifications reached directly into the Chilean embassy.

They asserted the general staff headquarters for the civil and military conspiracy was located there.

A Chilean business man, identified as Manuel Asencio Zuria, and two men said to be employes of the Argentine embassy were among the 200 persons already under arrest in this besieged metropolis.

Asencio Zuria, accused as the chief of one of four groups comprising the counter-revolutionists, was said to have had 1,650 men at his command, ready to strike at the rear of government troops defending Madrid upon a junction of the insurgent operations on the Madrid front.

The sudden drawing of the government net was reported to have brought capture of the conspiracy leaders among the 200 now jailed. The insurgent sympathizers involved in the scheme were said officially to number 7,500.

The counter-revolutionists were said to have plotted to throw 5,000 men at the government forces while 2,500 persons took over the control of Madrid.

Farley Plans Stir Interest Of Politicians

Some Think Retirement Would Mean Roosevelt Won't Run Again

IMPORTANT TO PARTY

No Other Cabinet Officer Has Equalled His Influence in Politics

Washington —(AP)— Politicians — particularly those who think President Roosevelt may seek a third term—are watching closely for official word on Postmaster General Farley's future plans.

Some of them would regard his retirement from the cabinet, even though he retained the chairmanship of the Democratic national committee, as a tip-off that the chief executive had made up his mind not to run again despite any amount of possible urging.

If Mr. Roosevelt has any third term ideas, these men argue, he would not permit withdrawal from Washington of the man who directed his political campaigns so successfully through two Democratic national conventions and two presidential elections.

They recalled that despite recurrent criticism from some of the president's closest supporters, Farley held both the cabinet and the party posts throughout Mr. Roosevelt's first term and took only a leave of absence from the post office department to conduct the 1936 campaign.

May Head Concern

Farley is understood to have agreed to become president of the Pierce Arrow Motor corporation. He has delayed accepting the post, it is reported, until preparation of an S.E.C. registration statement for a new Pierce Arrow stock issue.

In his two present positions, he has served the president in three major ways—as political adviser and organizer, as a cabinet member, and as "whipping boy."

Even if he kept the national committee post, his return to private business undoubtedly would curtail his political activities. As a business executive, he would not have much time to devote to Democratic organization work.

Farley's political activities have not been limited to campaigns. He constantly has been in touch with political lieutenants, making speeches, and handling patronage matters.

No other cabinet officer has approached Farley's record for travel and speech-making. In campaigns and out, he has gone back and forth across the nation lauding the Roosevelt administration and replying to criticisms of its policies.

Nor has he ignored the post office department. Friends say he is proud of its record. In answer to criticism, Farley has declared that for the first time in years the department is on a business basis and that it operates with surpluses instead of deficits.

As "whipping boy," Farley has frequently jumped forward to assume responsibility for administration policies that met attack. In such instances he has taken his "beating" with a smile and without resentment.

3 Minnesotans Killed When Auto Hits Train

St. Peter, Minn.—(AP)—Three persons, including a member of the St. John's university football squad, were instantly killed near here early today when an automobile crashed into a freight train.

Three other persons were badly hurt, including two members of the St. John's team which played Gustavus Adolphus college here last night. The dead:

Janesville—(AP)—A bride of two weeks, Mrs. Ray Jones, 35, Beloit, Wis., was killed last night in a triple collision on Highway 51 three miles south of Janesville. Her husband was seriously injured, as were George Anderson, 24, Lorraine Fowler, 17, and Dorothy Willits, 16, all of Janesville.

Anderson's car collided with another driven by Luther Mynard, 24, Janesville, and then swerved across the highway and met the Jones car head-on.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones returned Thursday from their honeymoon.

Trading Is Suspended in September Corn to Conclude Market Deadlock

Chicago —(AP)— Directors of the Chicago Board of Trade invoked emergency powers today to suspend trading in September corn and end the market deadlock between traders in the commodity.

The board ordered settlement of all open contracts at a price of $1.10½ per bushel.

The action averted a threatened "squeeze" which developed when it became apparent that there was not sufficient September corn available to permit traders to make deliveries in accordance with their contracts.

President Kenneth S. Templeton said the board had no alternative under the commodity exchange act which requires all contract markets to prevent manipulation.

A showdown on the threatened "squeeze" was due next Monday before the directors acted. All deals were to have ended at that time and the "shorts" would have had three days thereafter in which to make delivery.

The market crisis was precipitated by the realization that "shorts" were faced by a shortage of old domestic corn due to the drought of previous year, President Templeton said. The shortage, despite heavy importations of Argentine, South African and other foreign corn, he added, "permitted the

Hitler Shows Reich's Army To Mussolini

Social Activities Mark First Few Hours of Duce's Visit

EUROPE WATCHES

Awaits Results of Conference Between Two Dictators

Munich, Germany —(AP)— The militant heads of re-armed Germany and powerful Italy stood side by side on a reviewing stand this afternoon to watch crack troops of Germany's new army parade by.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler proudly displayed to Premier Mussolini 10,000 picked troops goose-stepping by their platform in Koenigsplatz or royal square, here. The troops swung by in full field equipment.

Il Duce watched the demonstration with a smile on his face, talking at the same time with the stern-faced Hitler. They seemed to be discussing the various units participating in the review.

Mussolini and Hitler afterward attended a tea, and at 7:10 p. m. (12:10 p. m. central standard time) boarded separate trains for Mecklenburg, where they will observe German army maneuvers tomorrow.

The first few hours of the visit of the Italian premier to the German chancellor here where Hitler started his rise to power was taken up with a round of social activities in a flamboyant setting of bunting and banners, troops and bands, cheers and parades.

The serious "brass tack" conversations of these two men who head the greatest fascist states of Europe either were sandwiched into the nine-hour program in Munich or were put off until later.

Whenever they come, the results of these talks promised to be of deep concern to all of Europe, if not actually factors in shaping the future.

For consideration there were the troubled Mediterranean situation, with France and Britain seeking Italian cooperation toward a control of piracy stemming from Spain's civil war; Italian and German intervention in that war—whether it should continue, be curbed or halted; rivalries in middle Europe; and Vatican attempts to terminate opposition to Catholicism in Germany.

Different Than in 1934

Conjecture on the subject matter was as varied as on the possible results of the Hitler-Mussolini talks.

Today's welcome for il duce was markedly different than that tendered to Hitler in 1934 when he

The ship was considered a total loss, but there was no loss of life.

Japanese in Seven-Hour Air Attack on Nanking; Huge Property Damage

Chinese Envoy to United States in Attack Upon Japs

Says 'History Furnishes No Parallel' to Military Activities

Washington— (AP) —Chinese Ambassador C. T. Wang in a formal statement today denounced Japan's military activities in China as "so cruel and outrageous that history furnishes no parallel."

The envoy said at a press conference that he intended to convey the statement to Secretary Hull for his information. He added, in response to questions, that he had no instructions from his government to solicit United States aid in the Sino-Japanese crisis.

Borrowing phrases used by Secretary Hull in a sharp note dispatched to Japan earlier this week protesting against indiscriminate bombing of large non-combatant Chinese populations, Wang condemned the Japanese war machine for having "grossly violated the principles of humanity and the pertinent canons of international law."

"The atrocity of the Japanese army," the statement continued "is manifested in their indiscriminate bombing of open and undefended towns and villages and the wilful slaughter of non-combatants, in their culpable destruction of the Chinese Red Cross units and in their use of asphyxiating and deleterious gases."

Attack on Civilians

The envoy charged that Japanese air attacks "are directed purposely at the defenseless and innocent masses who do not take part and are in no way connected with the fighting."

The United States navy's Asiatic fleet operated today under orders to stand by for the duration of the Sino-Japanese conflict, if necessary, to protect America's 7,500 nationals and its $250,000,000 commercial stake in China.

These instructions, transmitted by Admiral Harry E. Yarnell to his American naval squadron in Far Eastern waters, brought renewed demands by organized peace groups for invocation of the neutrality act.

Admiral Yarnell has 40 war vessels and auxiliaries and a total of 8,467 officers and men under his command. He maintains his headquarters at Shanghai aboard the heavy cruiser Augusta in the line of fire of the opposing armies.

His announcement that American naval vessels will be kept in Chinese waters "as long as the present controversy between China and Japan exists" was interpreted here as a stiffening of the United States' policy in the undeclared war.

Six Perish When Vessel Founders

Nine Members of Crew Escape Death; Five Bodies are Sought

Red Rock, Ontario — (Canadian Press)—Deaths in the ship disaster in Nipigon straits, where the steamer Neebing foundered, were increased to six today when James Keenan, of Port Arthur, died in a hospital.

Search parties, assisted by several members of the Neebing's crew who were rescued after drifting for several hours when the vessel sank yesterday morning, searched the shores of Nipigon straits for bodies of the five who drowned.

Keenan, second engineer of the Neebing, suffered a fractured skull when high seas swamped the ship. He was brought ashore with nine others of the crew.

The Neebing went down in about 100 feet of water near Moss island. An attempt may be made to raise her.

A southeast gale lashed the steamship Neebing until it keeled over and disappeared.

Fifteen persons were aboard the ill-fated craft, owned by the Simmac lines of Montreal, as it towed the barge Couteau with a gravel cargo. The vessel was bound from Paradise island to Red Rock, near Nipigon on Nipigon bay in Lake Superior.

Captain A. L. Carney of Port Arthur went down with his wrecked ship. Others who died were T. J. Bechencke, chief engineer of Fort William; W. Smith, fireman, Fort William; Ray Paterson, cook, Port Arthur, and Mrs. Ray Paterson, cook's helper.

Youth Seriously Hurt in Plunge from Dormitory

Milwaukee—(AP)—George Caldwell, 15, was in a critical condition in a hospital today, his neck broken in a fall from a window of his second-floor room in the Milwaukee country day school dormitory.

Walking in his sleep, the boy toppled out of the open window early Thursday. He was found lying outside the dormitory. He is the son of Robert Caldwell, an official of a Rhinelander, Wis., paper company.

The degree was voted by the supreme board of directors for the archbishop's work in charity organization and Catholic Action leadership.

He was manager of the Edison Wood Products company at New London for 16 years, leaving the firm three years ago. He was a past president of the New London Rotary club, once a member of the board of education, a member of the Building and Loan association and a leading figure in the city's drive for the Community hospital.

Caddy Is Questioned About Woman's Death

Los Angeles—(AP)—An autopsy was ordered today on the bruised body of auburn-haired Virginia Lee Darrow, 34, found yesterday in the apartment of John Walker, Los Angeles Country club caddy.

Walker was held on suspicion of murder. Police Detective Joseph Filkas quoted him as saying Miss Darrow lost consciousness after a hemmorhage and that "I slapped her a little, trying to bring her to."

Earl Ragsdale, manager of the apartment house said Walker told him yesterday Miss Darrow was ill and had discussed calling a physician. Filkas said Walker told him Miss Dahlow had been living with him as his common-law wife.

Ragsdale told police the two quarreled frequently and Miss Darrow once had appeared with a black eye.

22 Trampled to Death During Panic in Egypt

Alexandria, Egypt— (AP)— Twenty-two persons were trampled to death and 46 injured today when panic spread through a procession of 100,000 workmen at the gate of Ras el Tin palace.

The procession was a demonstration of loyalty for Egypt's new king, Farouk I.

As it began to pour through the palace gates, too narrow to handle the immense crowd, confusion resulted. Leading elements were downed and trampled underfoot as the pressure of thousands in the rear exerted itself.

King Farouk afterward visited the injured, five of whom were in a serious condition, in the hospital and distributed indemnities to their families.

Power and Waterworks Plants Put Out of Commission

NO ALIENS KILLED

Two Government Hospitals Hit but Not Badly Damaged

BY C. YATES McDANIEL

Nanking —(AP)— Japanese war planes bombed China's capital for nearly seven hours today inflicting the heaviest destruction yet wrought in the series of devastating Japanese air raids.

Though loss of life was extensive, officials estimated casualties would be less than 200. No foreigners were reported killed.

Nanking's $1,000,000 electric power plant was bombed into a shell of ruins, and the city's waterworks put out of commission by Japanese projectiles. Authorities believed the property damage from the renewed aerial attacks, coming after a day's respite due to rainy weather, would run into millions of dollars.

The American embassy staff watched the spectacular raid from the embassy veranda. The nearest bombs fell a mile away.

Two government hospitals flying the Red Cross flag were struck by Japanese bombs but were not damaged seriously. Three blocks of the city's best shops were wiped out in the heart of Nanking.

Facilities Destroyed

Chinese officials declared light, water and food facilities upon which 1,000,000 persons depended, were destroyed by the raiders despite Japanese assertions their attacks were aimed only at military objectives.

The power plant was reduced to ruins by a Japanese air squadron leader who made a spectacular vertical dive directly above the structure to release a deadly rain of explosives.

American camera men declared they had recorded most of the bomb attack as well as the squadron leader's sensational dive.

Eighty Japanese warplanes made the raid sweeping over the terror-stricken capital in continuous waves while Chinese anti-aircraft guns thundered defiance. Three Japanese planes were downed.

One raider, hit directly by the first anti-aircraft blast, plummeted like a comet into the Yangtze river. Two other Japanese fliers bailed out but their parachutes failed and they dropped to death as their planes fell in flames.

Police, soldiers, and other spectators watched the aerial battle from crowded streets, cheering as the Japanese planes fell to earth.

Wounded Menaced

Projectiles rained about the National Health institute and the adjoining hospital housing a thousand wounded Chinese soldiers, but none was hurt during the attack. The Kingmingku hospital was sprayed with missiles shattering all its windows. Nurses remained on duty, however, throughout the raid.

Other bombs narrowly missed the home of T. V. Soong, brother of Mme. Chiang Kai-shek and former finance minister.

As soon as the attack ended, Mme. Chiang, chief of the nation's air forces, visited hospitals to comfort the wounded.

Two Japanese airplanes were shot down within sight of United States Ambassador Nelson Johnson, watching from his embassy.

Chinese officials said the Japanese lost seven planes in the air attacks.

This correspondent stood with Ambassador Johnson and his staff on the veranda of the United States embassy and saw two Japanese planes fall like comets with tails of smoke and fire after thrilling dogfights.

Mysterious 'Santa' Gives $200 After Barn-Raising Bee

Sheboygan—(AP)—Farmers of Erdman vicinity who were to receive $200 from a real life "Santa Claus" for their work in building Fred Peplau's barn reported today they would turn the entire amount over to Peplau.

Meanwhile, although there have been a few clues as to the identity of the elderly gentleman who handed the $200 to Farmer Walter Erostoezer to distribute to those taking part in the "bee," his name still is unknown.

The stranger came to Erbstoesser's farm Tuesday after walking along the road. He gave Erbstoesser the money and directions, and departed the same way, bluntly refusing to give his name.

Peplau's barn had been destroyed by fire, the second time in a year.

On Sept. 11, two days after the new Peplau barn had been completed, Henry Kollmeyer, a high school boy, found on a Sheboygan street corner a letter addressed to "Fred Peplau, County Trunk A." It contained a substantial amount of money. A newspaper advertisement failed to locate the loser.

3 Garr Brothers Freed on Bonds Totaling $50,000

Face Grand Jury Action Oct. 4 in Slaying of General Denhardt

Shelbyville, Ky. — (AP) — Free on bond, the three Garr brothers, accused of the slaying last Monday night of Brigadier General Henry Denhardt, awaited today the action of a Shelby county grand jury scheduled to convene Oct. 4.

Their bonds, totaling $50,000, were quickly executed yesterday by six Oldham county friends after County Judge Harry F. Walters bound them over to the grand jury. The brothers—Roy, Jack and Dr. E. S. Garr—are charged with murder in warrants sworn out Tuesday, but can be prosecuted only in indictments.

Dr. Garr and Roy returned to their homes near La Grange, in Oldham county. Jack Garr, 37-year-old "baby" of the trio, said he was going to his home near Cincinnati.

Decision Cheered

Judge Walters' decision to grant the brothers bail was cheered wildly by the crowd that had jammed the courtroom all day and heard Roy Garr, 46-year-old farmer and bird dog trainer, assume full responsibility for the death of the 61-year-old general who had been indicted and once tried for the slaying of his fiancee, Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor, 40, "baby sister" of the Garrs.

Describing the shooting, which occurred on this bluegrass city's almost-deserted main street as the former lieutenant governor and adjutant general of Kentucky was walking with his attorney, Rodes K. Myers of Bowling Green, Roy Garr said:

"I saw Denhardt go for his right hip, and by God, I went for my gun. I was scared and I started shooting and didn't stop until I had emptied my gun."

Denies Myers' Charge

Roy disputed testimony by Myers that he had fired a "coup de grace" shot into the general's head after he lay dead in the doorway of a hotel toward which he ran headlong after the attorney warned "general, there are the Garrs" and shots rang out.

Dr. Garr, 48-year-old veterinarian, testified he fired two shots but did not know whether either struck Denhardt. Jack Garr, according to testimony, was not armed.

Further to bolster their self-defense stand, Dr. Garr and Roy related threats they said had been made against them by Denhardt.

At Bowling Green, Jesse Denhardt, a brother, and Miss Bertha Denhardt, spinster sister of the slain man, issued a statement asserting they would leave prosecution of the Garr case to the commonwealth.

Set Seasons for Migratory Game Birds of Country

County Clerk Receives Bulletin on Federal Regulations

Seasons for migratory game birds are announced in a bulletin received by John E. Hantschel, Outagamie county clerk, from the bureau of biological survey, United States Department of Agriculture.

In Wisconsin the season on duck, goose, brant and Wilson's snipe (jacksnipe) will be from Oct. 9 to Nov. 7, on rail and gallinule from Oct. 9 to Nov. 7 and on woodcock from Oct. 17 to Oct. 31, according to federal regulations.

The bulletin states there will be no open season in the United States on wood duck, ruddy duck, bufflehead duck, canvasback duck, redhead duck, crane, swan, Ross's goose, shore birds, except woodcock and Wilson's snip, and snow goose and brant in states bordering on the Atlantic ocean.

Daily bag and possession limits on ducks are 10 in the aggregate; geese, including brant, 5 in the aggregate; rails and gallinules, except sora and coot, 5 in the aggregate; sora, 15; coot 25; Wilson's snipe, 15; wood cock, 4. Not more than one day's bag limit may be possessed at one time, the bulletin reads. The regulations are only those set up by the federal government and the seasons may be shortened by state law or regulation.

Shooting Hours

Shooting hours under federal regulations are from 7 o'clock in the morning to 4 o'clock in the afternoon on duck, goose, brant and coot, and from 7 in the morning until sunset on rail gallinule, Wilson's snipe and woodcock.

Migratory game birds may be taken with or by use of a shotgun only, not larger than 10-gauge fired from the shoulder; a dog or a blind or floating device, other than a sinkbox. They may not be taken with or by use of an automobile, aircraft, a sinkbox, power boat or sailboat, an automatic-loading or hand-operated repeating shotgun or more than 3-shell capacity, live duck or goose decoys or bait.

It is unlawful in the United States for a person over 16 years of age to take ducks, geese or brant unless he carries on his person an unexpired federal migratory bird hunting stamp.

STATE REDUCES LIMIT

Madison—The bag limit on coot or mudhens in Wisconsin this year will be 10 although federal regulations permit a bag limit of 25, Barney Devine, state chief conservation warden, said today.

"Federal regulations fix the maximum waterfowl hunting privileges and states cannot grant greater privileges than exist under federal regulations. However, states have the power to curtail seasons and bag limits where they find such action warranted.

In general the Wisconsin waterfowl hunting regulations follow those of the national government, but Wisconsin classes mudhens with ducks in setting a total bag limit of 10. Federal regulations set a duck limit of 10 but permit the shooting of 25 mudhens.

Find Edible Mushrooms Plentiful During Autumn

BY CLARA HUSSONG

This is the season when the mushroom hunter gets up early in the morning and with a basket under his arm goes out to meadows or woods to find his favorite species.

Clara Hussong

Most of the edible kinds prefer cool moist weather and in autumn we find more varieties of table mushrooms than at any other season.

The general favorite and the one most often grown under cultivation is the meadow agaric. In the wild state they usually appear during summer but they may be grown in cellars all the year round. Libraries usually have books on growing mushrooms at home or you may write to the United States Department of Agriculture for their Farmer's Bulletin, "How To Grow Mushrooms."

The various agarics come up like little buttons, white or tan in color, some of them darkening as they grow older. As the mushroom matures the cap expands, causing the membranous tissue, or veil, to tear and hang in ragged wisps around the stem just below the cap. The under side of the cap is covered with plates or gills which radiate from the outer edge of the cap to the stem.

Stem is Solid

At maturity the meadow agaric has a cream-colored cap with brownish spots and scales. The gills are first white, then pink and, when fully mature, brown. The stem is short, thick and solid. The spores are brown. The color of the spores can be obtained by cutting off the mushroom cap and placing it, gills down, on a sheet of white paper. After several hours pick up the cap and examine the powdery dust or spores collected on the paper.

All agarics have brown or purple-brown spores but all mushrooms having spores of this color are not edible. Poisonous mushrooms have spores which range in color from white to yellow, pink, various shades of brown and black. The most poisonous of all our mushrooms, the poison amanita or death cup, has white spores. Its cap is white, sometimes greenish or greyish brown. The stem is pithy when young, hollow when old. It has a ring of the veil below the cap and is set in a cup at the base.

The poison amanita is usually found in woods but occasionally it grows on lawns or in meadows among the harmless varieties. No antidote is known for the poisoning from this mushroom. Most of the amanita are poisonous. One beautiful variety, the orange amanita, is edible and a favorite in European countries as well as here.

Grows in Sand

You will find this mushroom in sandy soil, usually in thin pine woods. I found one recently in the oak and pine regions near a lake in northern Wisconsin. Its cap was bright orange-red in color and the gills and stem were bright yellow. Altogether it looked too highly colored to be edible but it is said to have been highly esteemed for centuries. The Latin name "Amanita Ceasarea," suggests the great regard in which it is held. In Germany it is known as "Kaiserling."

Although agarics, because of their nutty flavor, are the favorite mushrooms of most of us a great many other edible species are emerging now. Not all appear in the familiar umbrella shape. The bear's head hydnum, known in some communities as "Billy-goat's whiskers," comes up in decaying tree trunks in masses of white, with "teeth" or branchlets spread upward. They come in several shades: pink, white, yellow and violet. These mushrooms always remind me of cauliflower. All of the coral mushrooms or claviara are harmless and most of them delicious, so it is safe for the beginner to try them first.

Here are a few "don'ts" for the beginner, and by "beginner" I mean anyone whose knowledge of mushrooms has been gathered by heresay, from books or by accompanying an authority on just a single mushroom hunting trip.

Don't Pick Buttons

Don't rely on any test for detecting poisonous mushrooms. There is absolutely no test which is infallible in all cases.

Don't pick mushrooms in the button stage. Poisonous ones often look much like the good ones in the early stages. Leave the buttons to the man who knows all about mushrooms.

Don't pick mushrooms for table use which are even slightly decomposed or damaged by insects.

Don't expect to become a mushroom expert by reading books about them. Even if the books have pictures, mushrooms change color and shape as they advance in age and one poisonous one in the whole dish may do much damage. Find an authority in your neighborhood and accompany him often, until you know not only the good mushrooms but the bad ones as well.

Don't be afraid to eat mushrooms when you know that the one who picked them can be relied upon to pick only the edible kinds. I've enjoyed many mushrooms and steak dinners and I expect to enjoy many more because I know that the mushroom pickers knew their business and did not rely on any silly "test."

Fire Prevention Is Discussed at Safety Meeting

Kimberly Mill Employes Hear Talk by Thomas Milinski

Kimberly—Fire Prevention week is being held Oct. 3 to 9, Thomas Milinski, foreman of the steam department, told a large number of Kimberly-Clark mill employes Friday noon in a short safety talk at the clubhouse, which is held every two weeks in connection with the safety contest at the mill.

The speaker explained that during that week every one is asked to make a general check up on housecleaning, basements and the fire equipment in the factories and homes.

Insurance companies claim that two-thirds of the property and life losses could be prevented and are caused through carelessness, Mr. Milinski said. In order to prevent these accidents, causes must be eliminated, he maintained.

The speaker asserted that most fires can be extinguished in the first five minutes by quick action and knowledge of the fire equipment. He asked the workers during Fire Prevention week to check over their homes and to keep the basements clean and to do their part in preventing fires.

Dud Courchane said that employes at the mill have completed 52 safe days and urged the men to try and reach the goal, one hundred days.

Six individual prizes were awarded at this meeting. They were won by Peter Wildenberg, George Hamann, Clarence Deare, Ray Coulliard, John Porter and Andrew Coonen.

Miss Vivian Williams, Kimberly avenue, has recently joined the Dominican sisters at St. Catherine's convent at Racine. Vivian is now a postulant and is attending St. Albertus college there.

Miss Williams was an active member and an officer of the Blessed Virgin sodality of the Holy Name church. She was graduated from the Holy Name school after which she attended the public high school. Miss Williams was the president of the senior class with which she was graduated in 1937. She also won several scholarship awards while attending high school.

State to Observe Fire Prevention Week Oct. 3 to 9

Fire Chief Asks City Residents to Promote Program

Fire prevention week will be observed Oct. 3 to 9, and Appleton residents were asked today by Fire Chief George P. McGillan to cooperate in promoting a concentrated and continuous fire prevention program.

"Fire is one of man's greatest servants and yet at times it has proved to be man's most vicious enemy," he said. "Last year in the United States fire was responsible for approximately 8,000 deaths, and a money loss in property surmounting $293,000,000. In Wisconsin there were 12,977 fires at a cost of $5,890,245. More than 8,000 residences were involved.

"Now is the time to clean up all basements and garages, sell salable junk and destroy the rest. Old wooden shingle roofs, moss grown and deteriorated, need fixing, and now is a good time to do the job."

The Wisconsin State Industrial commission safety department asks hunters and hikers frequenting woods and forest areas to be particularly careful with camp fires, matches, cigarets, cigars and pipe smoking. Forest and marsh lands are dry and ready to burst into flames, if given a chance, the commission points out.

Mounting Prices Meet Resistance From Consumers

Public Will Buy Less if Upward Trend Continues, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Probably the best source of business information of a factual character is the National Industrial Conference board, which has access to data in all lines of industry. Hence the statement it has just issued in carefully measured words concerning the business situation is especially significant.

Lawrence

The board observes that "there are several reasons for believing we are not on the verge of another major depression" and gives among those reasons the following:

"Business has not yet recovered to its normal level. There is evidence of a long-term upward movement in building. Stocks of raw materials and manufactured goods do not appear excessive. No serious recession has previously occurred under these conditions."

There are some factors which the board frankly says may suggest "the possibility of a further decline in business activity" and these include:

"1. The abnormal labor situation, coupled with sharply rising labor costs.

"2. The practical certainty that the government will attempt to increase further its regulation of private business.

"3. The probability that an additional rise in taxes will become necessary."

Now, as for what has been happening, the board says industrial activity on the whole "declined" in August, and, were it not for the high levels of production maintained in the automobile, iron, and steel and electric power industries, the whole average would have been lower because of the decline in transportation activity and retail trade.

Incidentally, the auto industry is going along in good fashion with a 49 per cent increase in August, 1937, over the corresponding month in 1936, and activity has really reached, aside from seasonal considerations, "the highest point for any month since October, 1929."

Construction Drops

When we look at construction, we find a 11.3 drop from the July level and a figure only 3.6 per cent higher than a year ago in contracts awarded. There is a better gain shown, about 6 per cent, in private residential building.

While the heavy industries seem to be using a lot of electric power and steel ingot production was higher than in any August in the history of the industry, the armament situation abroad probably had much to do with it, though a heavy demand is reported from the canning, farm equipment, and petroleum industries, with a lag from the railroad and construction industries which usually use plenty of steel.

What is most disappointing is the decline during August in the field of distribution and retail trade. The most substantial losses, according to the conference board data, occurred in the five and ten cent stores and variety stores, but "the drop in other divisions was also decisive."

It is most significant that "since the recovery peak of February, the dollar value of department store sales has declined 4 per cent while the physical volume has receded 8 per cent."

This would seem to indicate that advancing prices are meeting with some consumer resistance and that, if labor costs continue to force prices upward, the public will be buying less. This, in turn, produces a slowing up in the wholesale houses and finally the manufacturing industries begin to lay off workmen. All the Wagner acts in the world will not make five days of work when there is only work enough for two days or three.

Indeed, the trouble with the whole New Deal scheme of planned economy is that it never really plans. It allows instead any one group to throw the whole economic system out of balance by arbitrary demands irrespective of economic justification.

It's the same trouble in the dictatorship countries, where planned economy can be more effective because the people there are regimented and their liberties are taken from them, so, from a purely mechanical standpoint, price control is simpler to operate. Yet, from Cordell Hull, secretary of state in the Roosevelt administration, came last week this statement in one of his speeches:

Economic Problem

"The board unsolved economic problem of distribution is how to find customers to enable the machinery of production to operate continuously and fully, economically and profitably. Our modern civilization definitely has within its grasp the productive means and resources for supplying the material needs of mankind on a standard of living never yet attained. But production continues to fall short, at times tragically short, of its possibilities, and we are still far from achieving a world of contented people."

Mr. Hull points out further that restriction policies all over the world have curtailed consumption and brought misery. He assails economic nationalism and economic isolation, which, he says, "when carried to their logical end, require complete control of production, and prices, regimentation and dictatorship."

Mr. Hull, who is perhaps the most outstanding statesman in America today, discreetly avoids mention of the domestic policies of the New Deal which are gradually curtailing production and threatening to bring more unemployment. But his main argument, namely that restrictions and barriers to external trade must be broken down, applies equally well to restrictions that bring high prices and stagnate the exchange of goods within a country.

The outlook is for more inflation by continuous increase in government borrowing for more price rises. The conference board points out there is room for more of the recovery movement.

The truth is we have not yet replaced the many things which wore out in seven years of depression since 1929. There would be a much better feeling in industry and business today were it not for the alarm being felt by business men that, half the time, the Roosevelt administration doesn't know what it is doing and has no plan or purpose but to drift along and trust to luck to balance the budget and take care of high labor costs.

Opportunism in Washington, and pessimism outside are not a happy combination, but maybe the temporary recession will open the eyes of the administration, that, when the next depression does come, they will not have a President Hoover to blame, but will have to face the charge of culpability themselves.

BOOK REVIEW

In 'Children of Strangers', Saxon Proves He Understands South

By Jean Wiley Thickens

"CHILDREN OF STRANGERS" by Lyle Saxon.

In his latest book, "Children of Strangers", Lyle Saxon proves conclusively that he knows his deep South as we in this locality know our Fox river valley. Mr. Saxon writes with deep feeling and in a style so vivid and realistic that one can actually smell the fragrance of honeysuckle and jasmine; can envisage the tiny negro cabins which line the meandering shores of Cane River; and can almost catch the soft slurring voices calling to each other from the small adjoining vegetable patches which surround each cabin.

Though the story opens in Louisiana only about thirty years ago, the position of these humble pensioners is little different from that which their slave ancestors occupied 70 years ago. The present generation are share-croppers on the thousand acre cotton plantation of Guy Randolph and he treats his "hands" in much the same paternalistic fashion as his grandfather handled their slave forebears before the Civil war. If they need a dollar or two in advance, he lends it to them; if they get in trouble he undertakes to extricate them. At the same time Guy Randolph is not above profitting by his superior intelligence and education to secure for himself additional small tracts of land belonging to the mulattoes, in exchange for much less money than he would be obliged to pay for the same property, were he dealing with white people. This is accepted philosophically by the colored folk and there is no resentment apparent as a consequence.

The title of the book is an excerpt from the Old Testament, Leviticus, Chapter 24: "Moreover of the children of the srangers that do sojourn among you, of them all shall ye buy, which they beget in your land; and they shall be your possessions. "This verse is strangely prophetic of the theme of Mr. Saxon's book.

Concerns Life Of Girl

The complexities of plot result from the mingling of the three races who dwell so closely together on Yucca plantation: whites, negroes and the free mulattoes, who have always been free. It is astonishing and enlightening to anyone not familiar with the south, to discover the definite line of social demarcation between these three classes and to learn how bitterly they resent any intimate association between them. The story is chiefly concerned with the life of Famie, a beautiful and refined mulatto girl whose great-grandfather was a wealthy and cultured French aristocrat. Augustin Vidal came to this country in 1760, took unto himself as mistress (it is unlawful for whites and negroes to marry in Louisiana) a beauty whom he met at one of the famous Quadroon balls in New Orleans and through her founded a family of rich, slave-owning French mulattoes whose customs, habits, and religious beliefs remain French, though tinged by the superstitions of the blacks with whom they come in daily contact.

Famie at sixteen is deeply beloved by her second cousin Numa Viday, also a descendant of that proud old French aristocrat who had founded the family in Louisiana. Famie however is having a clandestine love affair with a Texas bank robber who is in hiding on one of the tiny islands in Cane River. Each night, after her grandparents are in bed, Famie rows to her rendezvous with the red-haired bandit. Numa discovers the bandit's hide-out and as a result he is captured and killed. Later Famie marries Numa though she does not love him. His gentle life is overshadowed by this knowledge and he dies before he is thirty.

Famie is completely wrapped up in the life of her son Joel, flower of her brief romance with the dead robber, and devotes her life to giving him all the advantages enjoyed by the son of the plantation owner, Randolph. Joel repays her maternal devotion and self-sacrifice by being ashamed of his mother and refusing to live in Cane River. He goes to Chicago where he can pose as white, and Famie sees him no more.

It is difficult to convey the exquisite charm of this simple story. It has deep tenderness, poignancy and the beauty of poetry. At points in the book one's heart is wrung with sympathy for the patient suffering of these remarkable people. The memory of their courage, sturdy independence, triumphs and defeats linger like a fragrance in the reader's mind. Mr. Saxon is to be congratulated upon his ability to portray so authentically a country and a race whom he knows and loves so well.

Increase Speed Of Compensation Payments in State

Greater Number of Cases Settled Within 3 Weeks Last Year

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Payment of claims arising under the Wisconsin workmen's compensation law were paid more promptly last year than in any previous year of the act's 26 year operation, the Wisconsin Industrial commission reported today.

The Wisconsin Compensation act, which has been operating successfully since 1911, when it became the first in the nation, provides benefits which are primarily of three kinds: death benefits payable to the surviving spouse; indemnity payable in lieu of wages to a disabled employe, and payment of all medical costs reasonably required to restore the injured employe as far as possible.

Announcement by the commission, administrator of the law, shows that last year the percentage of cases in which payment of compensation was made within three weeks or less after disability began increased in all three classes of insurance carriers.

Of the 20,926 cases settled in 1936, 16,999 or 81.2 per cent were handled by insurance companies, while 3,927 cases or 18.8 per cent of the total was handled by self-insured employers.

A sizable percentage of the total compensable cases, the commission reported, represented employes in the northeastern area.

Brown county reported a total of 650 cases, which accounted for a loss of 77,112 working days. Total indemnity paid was reported at $107,366 by the industrial commission statisticians.

Green Bay accounted for 509 of the total cases, DePere reported 42, while 99 occurred in other communities in the county.

226 in Appleton

Outagamie county reported a total of 476 cases, divided among Appleton, with 226, Kaukauna, with 116, Kimberly with 25, and Little Chute with two. Other communities together reported 107 cases.

Time loss due to industrial injuries in Outagamie county last year totaled 42,798 working days, and total indemnity amounted to $61,327.

Total cases and indemnity paid for other counties in the northeastern area were comparatively small, as follows:

Calumet, 66 cases, $19,700; Door, 118 cases, $12,000; Kewaunee, 78 cases, $8,000; Manitowoc, 373, $42,000; Oconto, 171 cases, $26,000; Shawano, 196, $11,500; Waupaca, 153, $31,000.

Winnebago county was one of the highest with 746 compensable cases during the year, and a total of $66,000 received in indemnities.

Register 380 Pupils at St. Mary Parochial School

A total of 380 pupils have been registered this year at the St. Mary parochial school, school authorities reported today. The enrolment is about the same as last year. Several projects are being planned including one in connection with civics classes. A court of justice will be conducted and will be patterned after regular court procedure.

Legislators Slow About Getting Down to Business

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—To the gallery spectator sessions of the Wisconsin state legislature may be good shows, to its members they are fun—at least most of them appear to enjoy their work and seldom fail to run for re-election—but the newspaperman who covers them thinks it is just a chore, sometimes a dreary chore.

Take the current session, for instance. On Wednesday, Sept. 15, Governor LaFollette summoned the lawmakers back to Madison for an extraordinary session, a session which would correct some of the mistakes and make up for some of the neglect of the regular session which ended in hectic fashion early in July and which even Progressives agreed was a mess.

So they came to Madison Sept. 15, 132 of them, but not to work apparently. They listened to the job the governor had outlined for them, a little matter of a $3,000,000 relief appropriation, hired some 50 political retainers, nominally stenographers, clerks, and messengers, and went home for five day weekend to think it over.

Very Deliberate

Monday they were back in town, but if anyone expected them to get to work he was quickly set aright. Hearing on the relief bill was set for Tuesday afternoon, although the administration really would have preferred the preceding Friday afternoon. So the Monday and Tuesday morning meetings began and ended with prayer and roll call.

Wednesday afternoon the assembly began its deliberations on the relief bill, after a week of home work. The senate, however, required a little more time for meditation. There actual work began Thursday morning.

Then, despite explicit and repeated warnings by the governor that he would frown upon needless delay and dispatch them to their home bailiwicks speedily if they insisted on delay, Progressives, Democrats and Republicans alike plunged with a will into that popular legislative pastime, argument over interpretations of procedural rules, which have been in force for decades.

A spectator, coming to watch the deliberations of the assembly as it gets underway at 10 o'clock of a typical day this week, a day which cost the treasury something better than $1,000, would have seen something like this:

Read Newspapers

A preacher opening the meeting with prayer. Routine matters such as roll call, petitions, etc., while the members solemnly, and some not so solemnly sign letters, busy themselves with the morning newspapers, or stroll about the chambers exchanging the time of day with their colleagues.

Finally comes a motion by a Progressive floorleader pertaining to the business at hand, the relief measure and its amendments.

Instantly a howl of pain from the opposition, clamoring for recognition, boisterous laughter, hurried consultations between leaders of opposing parties. The motion is out of order, say a dozen protesters. The speaker, at the moment stubborn John W. Grobschmidt of Milwaukee, member of the FLPF, furiously raps for order, and rules that the motion is undubitably in order.

More shouts of protests, "Gag rule," shouts Mark Catlin of Appleton. "We may as well go home," growls Frank N. Graass of Sturgeon Bay.

Appeals from Decision

Up pops veteran Charles A. Budlong of Marinette, whose drollery amuses at times, but who at the moment is deadly serious. "I appeal from the decision of the chair."

"Shall the decision of the chair stand?" asks the speaker.

"No, no, a thousand times no," shouts from the chamber answer. A roll call is ordered. The result: 46 ayes, 46 noes.

"The decision of the chair is sustained," rules the speaker.

More, and if possible, louder protests. Shuffling of rule books, laughing, talking, follows until a wit arises to quote the house rule on "order and decorum."

After a half hour of excited palaver, during which scribes at the press table relax, smoke and form their own judgments, Speaker Paul Alfonsi gets up to remind the house that a sizable portion of his citizens are not nearly as interested in house rules as they are in getting the benefits of the $3,000,000 which the house was called back to appropriate.

Meanwhile a lobbying group from Alfonsi's home territory, mostly cheering and booing from the galleries, subsided when the sergeant threatened to throw them out.

Debate Amendments

Then came the job of dealing with the 15 amendments which ambitious legislators hoped to tack on the administration's relief bill. Every amendment means at the very minimum half a dozen speeches, half a dozen roll calls. Wednesday's house disposed of the recommending two of them the first day. Petition of assembly [illegible]. If the same facts and the same figures sound well, they can be spouted endlessly.

And so while the [illegible] patches briefly detail the [illegible] the day's work, much of the story untold. After two weeks [illegible] of the legislature [illegible] relief bill contains [illegible] he will vote [illegible] voting on it, spend hours [illegible] tious debate, making [illegible] which his colleagues pay not the slightest attention, but which he perhaps hopes will attract the reporters, wrangling, fighting. Is the ordinary observer to be blamed for thinking that he enjoys it?

Send Notice of Paving Assessments to Owners

Notice of paving assessments Friday were sent to property owners on Ravinia place, Morrison street, Packard street and S. Lawe street by City Treasurer Joseph A. Kox. Property owners will be given until Nov. 1 to pay the assessments and the remainder of the cost of paving the four streets will be covered by a bond issue.

Michigan Governor Plans to Return to Work Next Monday

Lansing, Mich. — (AP) — Governor Frank Murphy returns Monday to a desk piled high with the accumulation of his six-weeks absence.

While he has been gone—on a trek that took him from coast to coast, and in a hospital for rest from the strains of office—both major parties have launched campaigns they announced would not let up until the eve of the 1938 elections.

Legislative and administrative branches of the government, at odds over the status of special investigating committees, have entangled themselves in a mass of legalistic red tape that it may take the supreme court itself to untangle.

The budget ax lopped $1,800,000 from state school funds, evoking a mixed chorus of protests and applause.

The civil service commission held its first formal meeting, and a new civil service director embarked upon a program designed to bring 13,000 state employes under a uniform personnel code.

The problem of balancing a budget that is out of joint, an institutional program with which he busied himself in the quiet of his hospital room and the launching of the civil service plan were expected to share Murphy's earliest attention.

Three Governors Hope to Land Big Muskies Today

Trout Lake, Wis.—(AP)— Governor Henry Horner of Illinois landed the first muskie in a fishing duel with Governors Philip LaFollette of Wisconsin and Nelson G. Kraschel, of Iowa, today a half hour after the governors set out on a small lake, 35 miles from Trout lake headquarters in Vilas county.

Horner's catch was a 31-inch fish, caught with sucker bait.

Trout Lake, Wis.—(AP)—After a hearty north wood's breakfast early today, Governor Philip LaFollette's fishing party unlimbered rods and baits in an effort to lure a fighting muskie from one of a chain of small surrounding lakes.

The entourage, composed of Governors LaFollette, Henry Horner of Illinois, Nelson G. Kraschel of Iowa and their aids, arrived here in time for a pike dinner last night after a 250-mile motor trip from Madison.

Leaving the state capitol in a driving rain, the party was greeted at the Trout lake forestry headquarters — commonly known as "the Statehouse"—with a cheerful fire, a good dinner and comfortable beds.

The governors found a mark to shoot at in their fishing today—a 44-pound muskellunge which forest rangers had on exhibition outside the lodge-like headquarters. It was caught by an unnamed New York woman visiting in the region.

Another Contest

The gubernatorial fishing trip, is an outgrowth of a recent tall corn contest at Des Moines, won by Kraschel. LaFollette hopes to recapture prestige for Wisconsin by landing the biggest muskie.

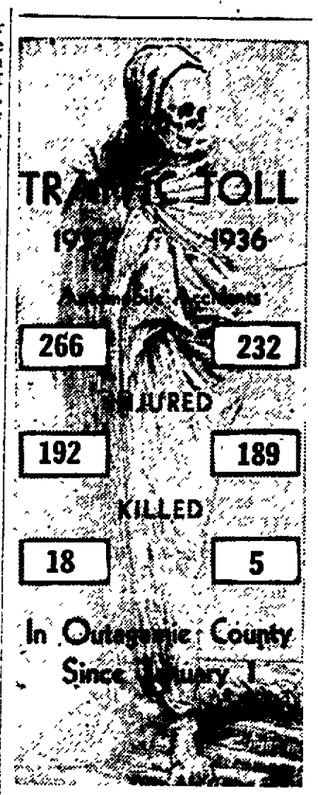

Conversation centered on Wisconsin's conservation and recreational advantages as the chief executives drove through wooded country where the trees had been beautifully tinted by the first light frosts of the month. They did not discuss politics, Gordon Sinykin, secretary to LaFollette, said.

The party made the first of three stops enroute about 30 miles from Madison at the Poynette state game and fur farm. After a lunch at Stevents Point, the final stop was made at the district forestry equipment station at Tomahawk.

Ernie Swift, deputy conservation director who took charge of the entourage after its arrival here, told the executives fishing for muskies was best in the early forenoon, so they planned to start at 9:30 today. Wardens were assigned to guide the governors to good fishing spots in nearby lakes.

Swift promised to show them some deer and said rifle target practice would also be on their day's program.

The expedition's headquarters is only a few miles from the Little Bohemia lodge where federal agents routed the John Dillinger gang several years ago.

Predict Frost in Appleton Tonight

Temperature Will Rise Again Sunday, Weatherman Says

In contrast to this week's midsummer temperatures that reached 90 degrees, remindful of swims in the lake instead of off-tackle smashes, a frost is predicted for Appleton and vicinity tonight, with fair weather tomorrow. The temperature will rise again tomorrow afternoon, the weatherman says.

The thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building registered 57 degrees at 1 o'clock this afternoon. For the 24-hour period preceding 9 o'clock this morning, the highest was 69 and the lowest 43, according to records at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant. Precipitation was .04 of an inch.

President Roosevelt's weekend pause at Yellowstone National park in Wyoming during his trip to the northwest will be marked by cold weather, according to weather reports. Yellowstone, with 24 degrees, was the coldest spot in the nation yesterday. Abilene was the warmest with 90.

Suspend Trade in September Corn

'long' interests to take advantage of the situation."

The directors decreed that "short" interests must notify the board of intentions to settle open contracts at the stipulated price or elect to make delivery. Failure to deliver after such notification would render the trader in default under exchange rules.

Directors were in session most of the night before reaching a decision. Early in the proceedings they conferred with officials of the commodity exchange administration.

Board officials tripled margin requirements in an effort to reduce speculative activity.

A charge that corn prices were being manipulated was made yesterday in a statement by the Farmers' National Grain corporation, a leading cooperative.

The high price for September corn was in the face of one of the most bountiful harvests in years. New corn, however, could not be substituted for September corn in making deliveries because its moisture content exceeded exchange limitations.

LIBERALS ON THE BENCH

When a vacancy upon the supreme court appeared before President Theodore Roosevelt he appointed Oliver Wendell Holmes to fill it.

Justice Holmes served until he was nearly 90. Perhaps the death of no man in America's history was ever more genuinely or generally mourned. The affection for Justice Holmes swept the nation like a tidal wave.

When this great man was appointed to the supreme court he was already great. He was taken from the Massachusetts supreme court where his services had become distinguished.

Justice Holmes was a liberal. But Justice Holmes was a scholar and a patriot. Would anyone have a difficult time imaging the flashing light of scorn that would mount into his eyes were he asked to join an organization of bigotry to gain an office?

When Mr. Hoover as president was called upon to fill a vacancy he selected Justice Cardoza, another man who is a combination of patriot, scholar and liberal.

Justice Cardoza had already made a record for himself on the New York Court of Appeals, the highest tribunal in that state.

There are literally hundreds of such men to be obtained for the supreme court of the United States, men with splendid records that are already reduced to writing and copies of which may be found in any city the size of Appleton. Wisconsin's chief justice belongs to that group.

The notion of the President that the only liberal fit to serve is some sort of garrulous political retainer with a smeared record is more of an assault upon liberalism than anything else.

It should be noted that in Wisconsin where a socalled progressive government has been in control its share of the last thirty years it has put men into judicial positions when vacancies occured for which it never was called upon to apologize.

Liberalism under Mr. Roosevelt is running for the rocks.

FRANCE BECOMES A COCKPIT

The depredations of Russian agents in France is a poor recompense for the hospitality of that democracy.

The disappearance without trace of further members of the White Russian colony, traditionally opposed to communism, should call the attention of the world to the patience with which France has treated the various and divergent elements that have crowded her highways. Perhaps it would be more proper to say that her patience has become a weakness.

When Hitler commenced putting his theories of justice into operation in relation to the Jews thousands who happened to be able, or correctly foresaw what was coming, went to France. Few of them had more than enough to subsist upon. Many of them carried empty purses.

When fascism reared it head in Italy and abolished rights that were very dear to many Italians the complaining ones went to France. This happened to be a very large pilgrimage, much larger than the one from Germany. Again purses were thin.

When the civil war broke out in Spain there was much to do by way of mere humanity and without regard to playing either side as a favorite. Again France opened her doors and through them streamed a great concourse of ragged children and the equally ragged aged.

There are other groups in France, some from Austria, some from Yugoslavia, others from Rumania and still others from Bulgaria.

Each group has posed to the French government a difficult problem. It has been necessary to feed and to clothe, but even dragging heavier upon the French economy has been the necessity of putting these people to work or permitting them to have work.

In these groups, too, were many wild elements. Particular difficulties have been occasioned with the Spanish children, youngsters of 14 and 15 having already committed many crimes on French soil, even as desperate as murder.

Thus France has afforded shelter to those whom she considered oppressed or in danger. The eventual price she may have to pay is far above and beyond the immediate cost. That price may include bitter national enmities forever bubbling in the smelly caldrons of hatred.

But the sorriest part for France is the realization that so few of the refugees from abroad appreciate the generosity that is poured out upon them.

THE LANGUAGE OF 1914

"Americans are not quitters!" thunders the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce, in reply to the suggestion from Washington that it might be a smart idea to get out from under the rain of shells and bombs —apparently impartially distributed by Chinese and Japanese alike—while still in one piece. There follows the usual demand for upholding American prestige, adding, with unusual candor: "and property."

This can mean only one thing. It means that Americans in Shanghai are willing to see American lives sacrificed, thousands of them, perhaps, should we become embroiled with either of the embattled powers, in order to protect their interests on foreign soil. To this dramatic appeal, the mental response of the average American is "We know all about that one."

We are not unmindful of the advantages of foreign trade. We cannot take our eyes from the fact that the world has made its habits and constructed its everyday life expecting foreign trade to continue. And when you lop something material like that off without notice there are bound to be shocks and repercussions that will surprise and pain many who have never thought about them and certainly do not expect them.

But that is only one side of the argument. And the other side, we believe, is the stronger one.

Those who conduct this foreign trade, and incidentally reap its major profit, must accept certain hazards that go with it. They would be willing to agree to this formula. They would say that tsetse flies, head-hunters, yellow fever, alligators and the bubonic plague are part of their risks. We must add one more. It is war.

When two great powers are locked in a death struggle that destroys hundreds and sometimes thousands every day, it is a little extreme to expect either one to get excited and run a temperature because an alien happens to get in front of a shell.

Such an assertion would not apply of course where bandits or savages attempted to take the lives or property of our nationals who were conducting their business at the invitation of some foreign power and consistently with its laws.

Besides, if it is not altogether immaterial, we would like to wager a good fat doughnut that the country could more than reimburse its traders in alien lands for their losses, and save billions, by refraining from entering the fray.

Someone like Mr. Segar could take a situation of the kind now existing at Shanghai and present it forcefully without enlarging the personnel he customarily uses. On one side he could place the redoubtable Popeye, representing the sailors and marines; on the other, Toar, or some similar fearsome creation, labeled War. And in the center would be Wimpy, holding a hamburger tagged "foreign trade," and remarking, between mouthfuls, "Let's You and Him Fight."

A SPANISH EXPRESSION

When General Franco, the Spanish leader, answered the request of Mrs. Dahl for the release of her American born aviator husband he signed himself, "Your Obedient Servant who kisses your feet."

This method of address is nothing more than "an old-fashioned Spanish custom," but it is worthy of note to observe how those people who cling to customs of excessive adoration or extreme humility often find themselves enmeshed in practices of cruelty that seem strangely at variance with their ordinary suavity and the other outward semblances of what is erroneously called "good breeding."

A people may be cultured without going to excesses. The most precious national culture is that guided by intelligence and aimed at justice. Under such a system courtesy, the interchange of polite greetings and the abolishment of bickering with its senseless personalities, are always to be supported and advanced, but when courtesy stoops to crawling and politeness turns into jabber it may fairly be viewed as the forerunner of weakness, as in China, or hypocrisy, as in Spain.

Opinions Of Others

FRESHMAN AT 70

One's first reaction to the singular item, from Elgin, Ill., which records the opening of a school for people over 70, with enrollment of 30 enthusiastic students, is one of skeptical questioning in such term as "What's the sense of studying at their age? How can they make use of what they learn?" On reflection, however, the thought arises that these elderly freshmen are very well advised.

The education offered to the young nowadays tends to be constantly narrowed along strictly vocational lines, with the object of equipping the recipient to earn his living in a special field. It necessarily leaves untouched great areas of knowledge which in less hurried times would be explored merely for the satisfaction of curiosity and the enlargement and enrichment of the mind, and often throughout a working career one has little leisure to repair this deficiency. But minds that are truly alive and active remain aware of it, and hunger for the [illegible] they know they have missed.

The 70-year-old Elgin matriculates are intellectually hungry but, unlike too many others, they are not resigned to remaining unfed. In age, usually regarded as life's twilight, they recognize a morning of opportunity. For, retired from economic pursuits, they at last have a chance to get what they have always wanted. And they are resolutely setting out to do it.—Detroit News.

Ethiopia is referred to in the Bible as Cush.

THIS is really about the first day of the college football season, although a few contests took place last week, and I think I will take advantage of the opportunity to get a matter off my chest.

It has to do with the fact that Wisconsin is taking on the Pittsburgh Panthers come the twenty-third of next month. Personally, I do not think that Wisconsin should be indulging in such monkey business. Pittsburgh, in case you read the article in the Satevepost this week, is the school where the student newspaper griped over the claim that Pitt football players do a five hour training turn every day. The coaches said that the boys do not practice that much, but that is what the coaches are supposed to say.

At any rate, there is no doubt but what the Pitt football players must spend a great deal of time getting themselves toughened up and making themselves extra skillful. I point to the manner in which Pitt simply walloped the daylights out of a big, rugged Notre Dame squad last year.

The point I am trying to make is this: Wisconsin should not be playing such a team, because, being a state university where the boys have to attend classes now and then, and where a five hour training grind would mean absolutely no time for classes or study in the afternoon, Wisconsin is simply asking for woe and more of it. The football players at Wisconsin simply do not practice five hours or anything like it a day.

There is something in the situation that reminds me of Tom Kenneally of St. Norbert college, a pretty fine young heavyweight boxer, being tossed up against Joe Louis. There is something definitely unfair about the whole business.

Then, too, there is that matter of how players happen to get to Pitt — some of them, at least. It is my impression, not backed up by actual observation, that Pitt lacks some of the charm that characterizes certain universities. At any rate, there lingers in my memory the story, (I may have told it last year), freely told around Notre Dame, about the sensational young halfback who, a few years ago, was registered there.

One day he approached a Notre Dame freshman coach. He wanted, it seemed, an offer such as Notre Dame is not in the habit of making. He was told that there was no such intention of meeting his demands, and he up and left. Last year he was a star at Pitt, and will continue to be one.

Now, I ask you in all frankness why Wisconsin should be putting itself on the spot by playing Pittsburgh?

Not that Wisconsin isn't probably lending a hand here and there, and not that a halfback may not get first crack at the table-waiting-for-meals jobs ahead of the non-halfbacks. No, not at all.

But Wisconsin just isn't doing it the same way that Pitt does it, and that's that. Pitt, with some alterations, might get along nicely in the same league with the Packers.

In the meantime, I will resent hearing about the final score of the Wisconsin-Pitt game, although I cannot claim to be prepared to resent the Minnesota-Wisconsin game in the same way. At least Minnesota starts off on the same basis as Wisconsin.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

WHY DO YOU SNORE?

Recently a correspondent asked if there is a cure for snoring. Incessantly admonished to be brief, I squeezed in this reply:

Answer—One who is healthy and fit does not snore. General overhauling may be needed. Local treatment of swollen or congested nasal tissues may be needed.

The correspondent happened to be a Scot—I haven't said Scotchman since a highly cultured lady gave me ballyhack for such vulgarity—and he was evidently quite beside himself about it, for he recorded his sentiments on a postcard, to wit:

You might tell us 'tis pleasant weather some fine day. Judging by your verbosity on such subjects as vitamins and colds you're not exactly a mine of information about snoring.

The main fault with my answer, I infer, is that it might cost something to follow the suggestions given. Long ago I found that a good many readers are like the beautiful Miss Philadelphia — you can't give her a book as a birthday gift because she has a book. I never advise any one to consult a physician—unless it is some barbarian who contrives to telephone me about his hypothetical sick friend. Instead of laying myself open to the witty rejoinder "Pardon, I thought you were one!" I simply mention apparent reasons why it might be well to have medical examination or advice, even tho the correspondent may have chatted with a physician as recently as 1924.

There are several styles or degrees of snoring, from the soft rhythmic sough of the physically fit individual who has vite, to the alarming stertor of the apoplectic.

Snoring is caused chiefly by the vibration or flapping of the soft palate in the varying currents of air entering partly thru the mouth, partly thru the nasal passage. As any one may readily prove, however, snoring may occur even if the mouth is kept closed and without any abnormality in the nasal passages.

So the correction of snoring involves much more than the correction of mouth breathing. The first factor to be investigated, however, is the condition of the nasal passages, and of course, this can be done only by means of head-lamp and speculum, simple apparatus used by any doctor, who is worth his salt. Local treatment, medical or surgical, may be necessary when there is thickening of turbinate, polypus or simple chronic rhinitis with congestion or boggy swelling obstructing nasal breathing. Adenoid or tonsil enlargements may require hygienic, medical or surgical treatment.

During sleep there is deep relaxation. Any moderate or low grade chronic trouble in the mucous membrane attended with engorgement or congestion becomes more pronounced during sleep. Likewise any general health deficiency which is accompanied by poor tone or flabbiness may be a factor of snoring. That's why I told the Scot general overhauling may be needed.

Trouble with many snorers is they smoke, drink, eat, sit and sleep too much.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Obsessor

Would like to know what you think about a fellow in my condition drinking milk. Have been subject to chronic bronchitis and catarrhal deafness for eighteen years. Fond of milk. But a drugless doctor said one with catarrhal trouble should never drink milk as it is mucus forming? (J. K. B.)

Answer — I think you should drink a quart or more a day.

Suspicion

Is there any simple home test whereby one could tell if one's food is being poisoned day by day? (E. P.)

Answer—No. Take some of the food you think has been poisoned to a physician for his opinion.

Jumping Rope

I have to keep my weight down by diet and exercise. Favorite exercise is rope jumping. I like it and it seems to keep me in fine trim. Any harm in it? (Mrs. H. E. C.)

Answer—No, it is all right.

Nutrition

Please give us more of your excellent talks on nutrition. A. C. G.)

Answer—Thank you. There will be articles along that line every week or two. Send ten cent coin and stamped envelope bearing your address for booklet Victuals and Vite.

Your Birthday

"LIBRA".

If September 26 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m., and from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:30 to 10:30 a. m., from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m., and from 9:30 to 11:30 p. m.

Watch your step carefully while in your home, for it might take very little to upset dispositions this day. Expressed likes and dislikes, especially about food, are not apt to meet with a favorable reception, so it will be good judgment to keep quiet about either. Compliments will help smooth over ruffled feelings, so a liberal amount is recommended in cases of apparent irritation this day. Allusions, or any indirect reference reflecting on personal traits or habits will be responsible for most of the day's quarrels, so be tactful in this respect. Frankness, is an admirable trait, until it becomes brutal and lacerates sensibilities, and that is what it will do this day, unless you are diplomatic. Married and engaged couples, and those who are in love, will display discretion if they refrain from flatly contradicting any statement, unless they have excellent cause for doing so, for refutations are fraught with danger this day.

If a woman and September 26 is your birthday, you may be inclined to be very critical about the shortcomings of those you know intimately. Be careful this does not affect your popularity. You may find, in time, it does not always pay to see and hear things. Loyalty and patience are two virtues you probably possess. Through a remarkable amount of perseverance you possibly will make a success of anything you undertake, especially in a commercial way. Your business judgment is likely to be a wonderful asset. Apparently money in large amounts ought to come into your possession, perhaps through some real estate transactions. As a broker, agent, store manager, purchasing agent, artist, author, actress, or in work of a promotional nature, your reputation will be established. Your married life ought to come up to your fondest expectations.

The child born on September 26, frequently after its student days, embarks upon a career filled with triumphs and the accomplishment of much good, particularly in helping other people.

If a man and September 26 is your natal day, if you put back of your intelligence aggressiveness, you ought to accomplish wonders in a financial way. Through mechanics, engineering, chemistry, botany, real estate, art, literature, and theological or theatrical work riches and fame may come your way.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York — The summer of 1937 is moving quietly towards the bourne from which no summer ever returns, and since the memory of man is sometimes short, it might be well to say at once that, far from dull in New York, this summer produced in headline entertainment—

The big champagne party for women in Col. Jeremiah Beall's Park avenue apartment and two casualties when one guest socked another with a ginger ale bottle and was socked in return with a champagne bottle, vintage 1906, empty.

The hair-on-the-chest, rock-me-to-sleep-with-a-manly-fist literary battle between Slugger Ernest Hemingway and Slugger Max Eastman, or the Enjoyment of Laughing at Bull in the Afternoon.

The annual cruise of Father Divine's angels up the Hudson to the Heavenly kingdom near Kingston with nothing for the inner man but friend chicken and corn on the cob, and for spiritual uplift one of Harlem's best swing bands. Also the defection of Faithful Mary, the stabbing affair in the main kingdom of Harlem's little brown messiah, the arrest of Father Divine in the coal bin of one of his Connecticut heavens, and the subsequent celebration when he was freed by a New York court.

The brawl on the sidewalk outside the night club, or who started the free-for-all that landed Adela Rogers St. John and her pals in the pie wagon.

The episode of the handsome movie star (manly Robert Taylor), his surrender to autograph hunters and the cute trick of the press agent who planted two of them, young, feminine, and good looking, under his bed on the Normandie just before he sailed.

The return of Honey Johnson to these shores without David, last of the Marrying Mdivanis, her denial of a romance with the Georgian prince, and the famous line of Jessie Livermore, Jr., friend and traveling companion: "I could if I wanted to."

The determination of Tommy Manville's fourth mate to go to Reno for a divorce if Tommy would sign a settlement for a quarter of a million dollars.

The artist who, becoming bored with the vapid conversations of his friends, gave a party at which the place cards were unflattering caricatures of his guests—so unflattering that one of the pests threatened to punch him until it became known that the artist was also an expert amateur pugilist.

The editor of a small mid-western weekly newspaper who visited New York and fetched along a flock of homing pigeons so that any news stories which might develop could be hurried back to his typesetter-in-waiting.

And, finally, the lady from out of town who began throwing pretzels when she had one too many, and that other gal who, denying from the depths of the psychopathic ward that she was crazy, explained: "I just had twenty or thirty scotch and sodas, that's all."

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Evidence that Senator-Justice Black foresaw the possibility of an anti-Klan kickback and sought at once to forestall it has nestled virtually unnoticed in the congressional record these many days.

The senate had already confirmed the nomination of Black to the supreme court when Senator Bankhead of Alabama, the new justice's senatorial colleague, arose to make a speech. Bankhead's speeches are rarely exciting and in the hurly-burly of the closing days of the session his message escaped with the most casual reference in the press.

But this is what he did. Bankhead read into the record that Senator Black had prepared in the Nature of a reply to klan accusations made against him by Senator Copeland of New York and others in the debate on confirmation.

The message was in the form of letters and telegrams to Black from Jews, Catholics, negroes and foreign-born residents of Alabama and elsewhere. These are the classes made the special subjects of klan hate. The messages congratulated Black upon his appointment and expressed confidence in his ability and judicial capacity.

Comments by Black

Bankhead did not say that the messages had been turned over to him by Black, but without exception all were addressed to the new justice. Moreover, in an off-hand manner Bankhead indicated that Black had spenciled notes on the letters and telegrams to assist Bankhead in explaining to the senate whether the writer was Catholic, Jew, negro or foreign-born.

Bankhead said he had intended reading them into the record during the course of the debate but had found no opportunity until a late stage. By then, he said, it had become evident Black would be confirmed, so he passed over the opportunity. Nevertheless, next day he read the messages into the record saying:

"In view of the injection of the Ku Klux Klan into the debate, I desire to read some communications from outstanding Jews, outstanding Catholics and one of the leading negroes in the state of Alabama with reference to their attitude toward Senator Black."

Altogether 35 messages were read into the record. Samples are:

"It is with a great deal of pleasure that I learned of your appointment to the supreme court. I feel that this is a just and fitting reward for your untiring work and efforts on behalf of our people. My best wishes and heartfelt congratulations."

It was signed Louis Pizitz. Said Bankhead: "He is the largest merchant in the state of Alabama, a Jew."

"This is splendid recognition of unselfish, fearless public service. The nation is fortunate to have been able to command for its highest tribunal one so able. Julian M. Saks."

It was in connection with this message that Bankhead called attention to Black's preparation of the message. Of Mr. Saks, Bankhead said:

"He was formerly of Birmingham, Ala. (The telegram was dated New York) and has been known to Senator Black, according to Senator Black's notation here for the last 25 years."

'No Klan Prejudice'

That klandom was in the mind of at least one who congratulated Black was indicated in a message from John W. O'Neill of Birmingham, which, by the way, is Black's latter day home town. He telegraphed:

"I desire to endorse your elevation to supreme court and state that United States Senator Hugo Black has never demonstrated klan prejudice in Alabama or shown any but a fair spirit toward members of the Roman Catholic church of Alabama."

Even Bees Drafted in Hitler Four Year Plan

Berlin —(AP)— Beekeepers and silk cultivators are to have a share in the cultivation of the land bordering Adolf Hitler's auto roads. Every particle of soil is to be lined up in the Four Year Plan for economic independence.

Land unsuitable for ordinary agriculture is to be planted with vegetation attractive to bees. It is hoped thus to increase by 50 percent the value of Germany's annual honey and wax production —today about $20,000,000.

Quantities of mulberry trees also are to be planted to increase the cultivation of silk worms. Silk-production is increasing rapidly in Germany.

Other portions of the land bordering the Reich's auto roads are to carry grass crops for goats, sheep and rabbits.

MOVIES AT SCHOOL

Philadelphia —(AP)— Philadelphia school children will see movies at school this year, but not the kind they save nickels and dimes for.

Dr. Edwin W. Adams, acting superintendent, says the pictures will be shown as an experiment in teaching youngsters "an insight into human relations and needs."

"Our pictures are not for entertainment," he says.

Appleton Theatre Launches New Movie Season Tomorrow

"100 MEN AND A GIRL" PREMIER SHOWING STARTS HIT PARADE

THE motion picture in the news spotlight is "100 Men and a Girl." The fact that Deanna Durbin has achieved the heights of movie stardom in her second picture, of itself, attaches new interest to this production. The little singer has won the acclaim and sympathy of radio and screen audiences. That the leading musical figure in America, Leopold Stokowski, has devised a new method for enriching screen music and giving it perspective in sound, makes the film increasingly significant.

This comedy drama with music, "100 Men and a Girl," which opens at the Appleton theatre Sunday for an entire week, features many players who have played in notable hits Deanna Durbin, Alice Brady and Mischa Auer and Eugene Pallette also registered in "My Man Godfrey." Adolphe Menjou won praise in "Sing Baby, Sing," "A Star Is Born," "One in a Million" and "Cafe Metropole."

Mischa Auer, the madcap musician, has a genius for torturing musical instruments. He declares he is the only pupil of his uncle Leopold Auer, able to play music which cannot be scored on paper. Mischa adds that it might be possible with a squeaky pencil on a shrieky slate.

The story theme stresses the drama and comedy of human living. Deanna Durbin as a musicians daughter, strives to save the careers of 100 musicians facing a crisis

Strong Supporting Cast

Since "100 Men and a Girl" was written specifically for Miss Durbin, it is naturally a picture with music. Leopold Stokowski, noted conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, appears with the little star. The featured supporting cast is impressive. Adolphe Menjou, Mischa Auer, Alice Brady, Eugene Pallette, Jed Prouty, Billy Gilbert, Frank Jenks and Jack Mulhall.

The same director-producer team which made "Three Smart Girls," Henry Koster and Joseph Pasternak, also turned out "100 Men and a Girl." Miss Durbin, with Koster and Pasternak, journeyed to Philadelphia and to Camden, New Jersey, to make preliminary recordings with Stokowski and the orchestra. When these were finished the trio, with Stokowski, returned to Hollywood and the picture was started.

Incidentally, Stokowski proved himself a benefactor to a hundred or more unemployed musicians.

OTHER BIG PRODUCTIONS BOOKED HERE

Among the many big pictures coming to the Appleton Theatre very soon are "Topper," "Make A Wish" and "Wife, Doctor and Nurse."

The uproarious comedy "Topper," which has made millions of readers laugh in every part of the world, now comes to the screen as the latest of the successful Hal Roach feature-length comedies. Constance Bennett and Cary Grant head the all-star cast.

"Make a Wish" is the new Bobby Breen picture which is a lavishly produced singing romance. The wonder boy of melody, Bobby Breen, thrills the world again surrounded by a cast of stars in a refreshing melody romance under the giant pines of Maine. Basil Rathbone and Marion Claire have the romantic roles in this outstanding production.

In "Wife, Doctor and Nurse," we have that lovable love team Loretta Young and Warner Baxter supported by Virginia Bruce, Jane Darwell and many others. You will not want to miss this or any of the other big hits which are being brought to you at the Appleton Theatre.

Also remember that in addition to the big hits at the Appleton Theatre you can play "Hollywood" every Saturday night at about 8:30 P. M. Play "Hollywood" for fun, for excitement and for cash awards. Attend the Appleton Theatre tonight and play "Hollywood."

Mary Jane Dohearty Wed To A. Wayne Turner in Church Ceremony Today

CARRYING a white silk covered prayer book and a family rosary rather than the usual bridal bouquet, Miss Mary Jane Dohearty, daughter of Mrs. F. P. Dohearty, 821 N. Oneida street, walked down the aisle of St. Therese Catholic church at 10 o'clock this morning on the arm of her brother, Francis Dohearty, to become the bride of A. Wayne Turner, son of Alexander Turner, Hannibal, Mo.

White twilled taffeta fashioned the gowns of the bride and her three attendants. Designed on simple classical lines, with a deep V neckline and soft, shirred full-length sleeves, the bride's dress had a full sweeping train. A short white tulle veil, fingertip length, fell from the white skull cap of hackle feathers which she wore.

The kneeling bench at the altar, where the Rev. M. A. Hauch read the nuptial mass, was decorated with a bridal bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley, which the bride carried when she left the church on the arm of her husband.

Made of the same material as that of the bride's gown, that worn by Miss Helen McGrath, maid of honor, was fashioned in Empire style with self-cording in intricate twists. The sweeping full skirt had a raised front hemline. The two bridesmaids, Miss Mary Zelie and Miss Marjorie Jacobson, who followed the ushers in the wedding procession, wore identical dresses, with dropped waistlines, key cording around the neck and self-cording down the front and around the hip line. Like the maid of honor's gown, they had sweeping skirts and the fashionable raised front hemline. All three attendants wore identical caps of white hackle feathers.

Serve as Ushers

The ushers who led the procession were John P. Kochler, Milwaukee, Dr. R. J. Stingle, Wilbert Hansen and John Dohearty. Mr. Turner's best man was Harold Krueger, Grand Rapids, Mich.

"On This Day, O Beautiful Mother," "Sacred Words," set to the music of "The Rosary," "O Lord, I Am Not Worthy" and "Ave Marie" were sung during the ceremony by Miss Helen Mueller and Miss Gertrude Farrell. Ray Peeters played the organ.

The ceremony was followed by a wedding breakfast at the Hearthstone Tea room for the wedding party and relatives, and from 2 to 5 o'clock this afternoon the young people received their friends at a reception at the home of the bride's mother. About 150 guests were expected. Greeting the guests with Mr. Thurner and his bride was the latter's mother, Mrs. Dohearty, who wore a gown of London blue.

Among the out-of-town guests here for the wedding were Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Dohearty, Miss Margaret Dohearty, Miss Patsy Dohearty, Mike Dohearty and William Keating, Whitefish Bay; Mrs. Emaline Henes Caley, Miss Gretchen Caley, Miss Emaline Caley and Miss Helene Henes, Menominee, Mich.; Mrs. William Oertling and Mr. and Mrs. Lethem Smith, Sturgeon Bay; Mr. and Mrs. William Powell, Stevens Point; Mrs. Joseph W. De Keyser, Birchwood, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Friel, Miss Leslie Freeman and Miss Ann Dohearty, the bride's sister, Chicago; and Miss Geneva Feamon, Indianapolis.

When Mr. and Mrs. Turner return from a 2-week trip to Hannibal and St. Louis, Mo., they will live at 207 S. Meade street, Appleton. A graduate of the University of Missouri, the bridegroom is associated with the Employers Mutuals Indemnity corporation in Appleton. Mrs. Turner is a graduate of Appleton High school and the Lawrence Conservatory of Music. She has been employed at the Appleton State bank.

5,000 Tons of Lime Used On Calumet County Farms

Chilton — The lime supply for the farmers of Calumet county as a PWA project has been all taken from the lime quarry, in the vicinity of the abandoned lime kilns west of Hayton. Thus far in 1937 five thousand tons of limestone have been quarried, crushed and used by farmers in liming their soil. Farmers have now been using this lime on their soils or have seen its results on soils of other farmers sufficiently long to be convinced of its good results, according to a statement by Frank Lepper, bookkeeper of the Calumet county lime projects.

The Revs. J. E. Hunck, F. M. McKaugh and Harry Schueller were at Green Bay Tuesday to attend a conference for priests of this diocese at St. Joseph's orphanage.

Banquets Tonight Climax Sorority Rushing Program

PREFERENCE banquets tonight and pledging tomorrow will climax a week of keen competition and rivalry for the six social sororities on the Lawrence college campus. A variety of gay and unusual parties that began with the initial teas last Sunday afternoon ended Friday afternoon, as each of the sororities entertained its rushees in a final bid for new members.

An all talent program was presented by the active chapter of Delta Gamma sorority yesterday afternoon at the Phi Kappa Tau house. It included piano and vocal solos by Miss Maureen May, Des Plaines, Ill.; readings by Miss Mary Voecks and Miss Ellen Driscoll, Appleton; piano and vocal solos by Miss Betty Nichols, Dixon, Ill.; a song by Miss Ruth Loken, Evanston; a skit on the founding of the chapter, presented by Miss Rosemary Mull, Appleton; Miss Ruthellen Pelton, Evanston, and Miss Geraldine Seitz, Milwaukee; and some original poems, by Miss Elizabeth Holt, Oak Park. Refreshments were ice cream and cake, and favors, little pots of flowers. Arrangements for the party had been made by Miss Grace Cooley, Oshkosh, rushing chairman. The sorority's preference banquet will be held tonight at the Valley Inn, Neenah.

Southern Party

The tradition of the south was stressed in the southern party given by Zeta Tau Alpha Friday afternoon at the Delta Sigma Tau house, for the programs were encased in mammy faces and a feature of the entertainment was a Kentucky derby. Miss Cylva Scanlon, Appleton, presented Zeta facts and history by means of an outline map made by the girls themselves. Each one received a section of the map of the United States and fit it into its proper place on the board.

Miss Pat Engelland, Blue Island, Ill., sang "My Mammy Told Me" and "Falling In Love with Someone" and during the latter number Miss Helen Boettcher, Appleton, president of the chapter, dressed in colonial costume, distributed colonial nosegays to the guests. Miss Engelland was accompanied on the piano by Miss Scanlon. A reading was given by Miss Marion Mayer. A candlelighting service brought the party to a close. Miss Boettcher was chairman of the event.

Musical Program

From the program, which featured a skit on the evolution of song, to the refreshments, which were ice cream molds representing musical harps, and tea cookies, the Kappa Delta Swing party Friday afternoon at the Beta Theta Pi house was a musical affair. In addition to the skit, the program included also dances by Mabel and Ruby Loose. Favors were candy swings. Miss Marguerite Greb, Appleton, was assisted as chairman of the party by Miss Betty Kleiner, Eau Claire, and Miss Genevieve Gamsky, Appleton. The Conway hotel will be the scene of the sorority's preference banquet tonight.

Tables arranged in night club fashion and chocolate cigarettes and paper caps as favors for the guests helped give the proper atmosphere for Alpha Delta Pi's cabaret party Friday afternoon at the Phi Delta Theta house. Two guitar players provided music for dancing, and a trio composed of Miss Betty Jane Winans, Glen Ellyn, Ill., Miss Dorothy Below, Elmhurst, Ill., and Miss Marjorie Wilson, Elmhurst, sang Alpha Delta Pi songs. Miss Betty Scott, Oak park, and Miss Adine Clare, Oak Park, were in charge of arrangements for the party. Tonight the sorority will have its preference banquet at North Shore Golf club.

Casino Party

Kappa Alpha Theta rushees who entered the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity house Friday afternoon for the Theta casino party were given packages of paper money with which to play the games of chance that provided the afternoon's entertainment. The same money was used to purchase numerous gifts which were auctioned during the afternoon, and the girls went back to their rooms laden with packages and the yellow and black balloons which had been used as decorations for the party. Wieners and buns, soft drinks and pop corn were offered at an improvised bar. Miss Betty White was chairman of the party, and her assistants were the Misses Jean Lewis, Barbara Rounds, Mary White, Jeanne Meyer and Mary Young, Appleton. The preference banquet is tonight at North Shore.

Fashionable attire for sports, afternoon wear and evening were modeled by Miss Mary Christine Cox, Miss Rosemary Nielsen and Miss Gladys Dettman at the Alpha Chi Omega style show Friday afternoon at the Delta Tau Delta house. Miss Dorothy Brown sang an Alpha Chi Omega song which she had composed herself, and little gumdrop nosegays were given to the rushees as favors. Refreshments were chocolate nut sundaes. The committee in charge of the party consisted of Miss Ruth Barnes, Miss Carolyn Kutz, Miss Rosalind Boettiger and Miss Mary Christine Cox. The sorority's preference banquet will be tonight at Riverview Country club.

Sigma Alpha Iota, national musical sorority at Lawrence college, brought its rushing activities to a close with a preference banquet last evening at Valley Inn, Neenah. Red and white were used in the decoration scheme, and at the close of the program the actives sang "The Rose Song" and presented each rushee with a flower. Miniature statues of musical composers were given as favors.

Pledging services will be held Sunday afternoon at the home of Miss Mary Elizabeth Hopfensperger, Neenah, and the pledge banquet will take place at the Hearthstone tea room.

Proper Asking Bids Pave Way to Sound Slam Contract

BY ELY CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: There is a nasty dispute brewing concerning the bidding of the following slam hand, and I wish that you would settle the argument once and for all. The hand:

South, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ A 10 7 6 2
♥ A K Q J 9 4 3
♣ None

WEST
♠ 8 4 3
♥ 7 5 2
♦ 9 8 3 2
♣ A 10 7

EAST
♠ Q J
♥ 10 6
♦ K Q 7 6 5
♣ 9 6 4 2

SOUTH
♠ K 9 5
♦ A J 10
♣ K Q J 8 5 3

"As played, the bidding went as follows:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	6 hearts	Pass
Pass

"Since East held the doubleton Q-J of spades, seven hearts were made. North claims that her bidding was the only possible method of reaching the slam without the danger of South returning to the spades and placing the slam in jeopardy. South, on the other hand, says that the bidding was not scientific, and that there are several possible combinations of honor holding which would have resulted in the same bidding without the hands containing the slam; that is, if South had not held the ace of diamonds and the king of spades, the slam was impossible. Asking bids seem to be the most likely method of reaching the slam with greater certainty of its being made, but we are uncertain of how these bids could have been used under the circumstances.

"Will you please advise the correct method of reaching the slam?

"Yours truly, E. P. C., Leadville, Colo."

It is an indisputable fact that if South's holding had been slightly different, though equally consistent with his bidding, the slam would have been impossible. From North's point of view one of the vital cards to locate was the diamond ace. Club strength hardly could be of value. The bidding between North and South should go as follows:

South	North
1 club	2 hearts
3 clubs	4 spades
5 diamonds	6 hearts
Pass

The outstanding difference between this bidding series and the one actually used is North's second bid. In the first series North's spade bid showed a suit; in the suggested series the spade is an asking bid. North has made an unnecessary jump to the four level. His first jump guaranteed that game would be reached. Therefore, there would be no point in pumping again, from three clubs to four spades, except to make an asking bid. True, this asking bid would technically set the club suit as trump, but this should not worry North because his heart suit is so beautifully solid that he can return to it as the higher ranking suit. If North, after hearing about second diamond control were to bid merely five hearts over five diamonds, he would be making another asking bid. His actual jump to six hearts is a definite choice of suits, a choice that asks partner to stand aside.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Question: The bidding has been as follows:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	2 hearts	?

What should East bid with:

♠ A K 7 ♥ 9 5 3 ♦ K Q J 10 5 2 ♣ 7 ?

Answer: East should bid three diamonds.

Dinner Serving Five Or Six

Smothered Beef and Vegetables
Mashed Sweet Potatoes
Bread
Honey dew and Cantaloupe Conserve
Fruit Salad French Dressing
Apple Tarts Hard Sauce
Coffee

Smothered Beef And Vegetables

2 pounds chuck beef	½ teaspoon pepper
1-3 cup flour	½ teaspoon salt
5 tablespoons chopped suet	½ cup diced celery
3 tablespoons chopped green peppers	½ cup diced raw carrots
2 tablespoons chopped onions	½ cup diced raw turnips
½ teaspoon celery seed	2½ cups boiling water

Cut beef into one-inch pieces. Sprinkle with flour and brown well with the onions and peppers in suet melted in large frying pan. Add rest of the ingredients. Cover and let simmer or bake very slowly for one and one-half hours.

Honeydew And Cantaloupe Conserve

6 cups honeydew melon rind	6 cups cantaloupe melon rind
3 quarts cold water	½ cup salt

Remove outside and inside pulp from the melon rinds. Cut into one by two-inch pieces. Add to the rest of the ingredients and let soak over night. Rinse and cover by three inches with cold water. Allow to simmer in a covered pan for 20 minutes. Drain and add to the syrup.

Syrup

5 cups granulated sugar	2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 lemon, thinly sliced	½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup chopped candied ginger	½ teaspoon salt
	3 cups water

Boil ingredients together for two minutes. Add cooked rind and let simmer for 35 minutes. Allow to stand for two hours or longer. Then let simmer until thick and jelly-like. Pour into sterilized jars and seal at once.

Cut peeled squash into half-inch pieces and brown two cupsful in three tablespoonsful of bacon fat for ten minutes. (Other fat may also be used.) Add one tablespoonful of minced parsley, one tablespoonful of minced onion and a little salt and paprika for seasoning.

Hickory nut ice cream makes a pleasant dessert for fall serving. Add one cup of shelled nuts to each quart of cream or custard mixture. Do not add the nuts, however, until the mixture is half frozen.

For Fascination

Veils of important proportions appear with formal fall hats. This one—a yard-wide circle of filmy black rayon mesh—adds allure to a cocktail hat made of felt circles and topped by a big felt bow. Louise Sanders designs it. A sparkling rhinestone button fastens the black rayon velvet dress.

A Little Saturday Talk

"About how many stars are there?" asks Judith Rosenberg.

It was thoughtful of Judith to ask me "about" how many, not the exact number. Even so, I cannot give even a close estimate. Neither can any astronomer or scientist. Every time a new and more powerful telescope has been turned on the sky, more stars have been found than were known before.

If we count the distinct stars which can be seen without a telescope or field glass, we can see only about 3,000. This does not include the stars in the Milky Way, which seem for the most part "all run together," but it does count all the others. If you think there are more than 3,000 distinct stars, you might try counting them.

Using a powerful telescope, I have gazed at a part of the sky which seemed to have no stars at all in it. Then suddenly there has flashed into view a great number of stars—scores and scores of them in that "blank" space.

A great survey of the heavens was started more than 30 years ago, and at the end it was found that about 100,000,000 stars had been photographed. The survey was made with telescopes not nearly so powerful as some which exist today.

We are told that "the 100-inch reflector on Mount Wilson can be used to photograph one thousand million stars." Even that number is not the end. After the 200-inch telescope is finished, the number of stars to be photographed will be greatly increased.

The true stars are trillions and quadrillions of miles from us. That is why they seem so small. If a real star (not a planet) came as close to us as the sun, it would look like a fiery ball. Some stars are not so large as our sun, but others are many times larger.

If a true star came to our sun, it no doubt would cause an explosion of the most terrible kind. The intense heat probably would end all life on earth. Since the true stars are so far away, there is little chance of anything like that happening.

Miss Pierce Responds to 3 Questions

BY ELSIE PIERCE

White Magnifies Contour Flaws

Doting Daughter writes: Please settle a point for us, Miss Pierce. Mother adores white. . . wears all white in the summer and in the winter loves white lingerie touches at the throat. Now it may be my imagination but I think the white accentuates her double chin and jowls. They seem less noticeable when she has an all dark dress on. She's gay, a grand sense of humor and probably feels much younger than she looks. Oh, I love every wrinkle, but I do like to see her look her best. Am I right or wrong about white."

Doting Daughter is quite right. White acts as a reflector. White powder under the chin would show up the contour flaws. Dark powder, carefully blended is recommended to cast a shadow, give the lie to a drooping contour. This holds true with white collars and lingerie touches, particularly those worn high under the chin. My bulletin on "Double Chin" is yours for the asking, Doting Daughter, as well as my Chin and Neck Exercises. Please send self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope for it.

Making Up A Very Thin Mouth

I. L: I wouldn't worry about people teasing about very thin lips being associated with lack of good nature and generosity. But, you can make your lips look fuller. It takes practice, however. At first rouge your lips carefully to the very edges. Gradually try bringing the rouge just a little above the natural outline, particularly on the upper lip. With practice and a lip pencil or small brush you should be able to master the trick. The only danger is in smudging or overdoing . . don't let the rouge look too obvious beyond the natural line, have it fade away very gradually. Since your lips are thin you can afford to use a fairly vivid shade, but not too bright. I should be very happy to send you my bulletin on "Make-Up" if you will send a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope for it.

Underweight

M. D. N.: Sorry if you feel that I have neglected the underweights in my column. The truth is there are more complaints about being too stout, more pleas "how can I reduce." The first thing to do is to determine why you are underweight. That done it should not be difficult to eat more fattening foods, rest, relax. My bulletin on this subject is yours for a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope. Address Miss Pierce in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent.

Old Gardener Says:

By E. I. Farrington

Many garden makers do not grow tulips because of the tiresome task of lifting and replanting them each summer. It is true that the large, late-flowering varieties, including the Darwin, the Cottage and the Breeder tulips, will not produce satisfactory flowers unless this is done. However, persons who wish to avoid this task need not deny themselves tulips in their spring gardens Most of the single early tulips will persist in the garden and flower year after year without lifting. Particularly is this true of Pink Beauty and its sport, White Beauty. Orders for tulip bulbs should be placed early this year for the supply of a number of varieties is very limited due to the poor bulb crops in certain parts of Holland. Orders placed now will be filled by your dealer in time for November planting—the ideal time for tulips to go into the ground.

Rounder Husband Doesn't See Why His Wife Objects

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—My wife has some very good qualities. She does all of my clerical work and interests herself in the things that I am interested in. She likes the sports I do. We have four children and she looks after them very capably. Does most of their sewing and her own housework, including washing and ironing without any modern conveniences, as we live in the country. She has a big yard to care for besides chickens and her garden. I have jobs outside of my farming and when I am rushed with work she will drive the tractor, milk the cows, in fact do anything to help out. But here is the rub: If I stop at a tavern and spend an hour or so drinking with friends she is utterly upset and feels that inasmuch as she has done the chores, milking and feeding the stock and so forth, the least I could do is to come home. I can't understand her. She is an educated, talented woman, a good mixer, quite witty, sociable and very broad-minded about everything except drink. She wouldn't care about how many outings I went on with men friends if there was no liquor mixed in it. And another thing she can't seem to understand is that if a man does get a bit too much and is aggravated by his wife's remarks to him he will say things that are perhaps unforgivable. She ought to know he doesn't mean 'em. Of course, I don't approve of a man striking a woman, but when she knows he is not responsible and she provokes him too far she really can't blame any one but herself, especially if he is genuinely sorry for it afterward. And don't you think a wife should go with her husband on drinking parties even if she doesn't approve of them?

A MAN WHO NEEDS HELP.

DOROTHY DIX

Answer:

You certainly do need help, but it would take a miracle worker to help you to see the miserable rounder of a husband you are and the rotten deal you are giving your wife.

According to your own account she is a paragon among wives. She is educated, talented, a good mixer, a wife you are proud to take among your friends. She is a good wife and a good mother; she does the work of a hired man and a hired woman about the farm and tries in every way to help you get along. How do you repay her? By getting drunk. By spending your evenings drinking with your friends while she does all the chores.

And you think she is unreasonable when she objects to seeing the money she has worked for so hard going over the bar for liquor instead of into at least buying her a few good tools to work with. And you didn't see why she is hurt when you curse and abuse her when you are in your cups, nor why she should treasure it against you when you beat her up when liquor has turned you into a bully and a beast.

She certainly must be a very curious woman. No wonder you don't understand her. I don't either. I can't see for the life of me why she puts up with you.

If you were a woman, how would you like a husband who treated you the way you are treating her?

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have a friend who fell very much in love with a young man who gave her a whirlwind courtship. He even got the marriage license and they were going to Bermuda on their honeymoon. Then a former girl friend of his, who is married and ten years his senior, started trouble by telling him that my friend had tuberculoss. Then she told my friend that the man wouldn't marry her because he didn't love her. He doesn't deny or affirm this statement, but seems to be ruled by this jealous woman. He refuses to see my friend any more, which is breaking her heart, as she still loves him, has faith in him and believes Fate will bring him back to her. This girl has a fine profession and I think she is a fool to believe he will come back. What do you think? L. E. S.

Answer:

You've said it. Any girl is a fool to waste a second thought on such a cad as is this man; or to shed a tear at losing him. Instead of bemoaning losing him she should be thankful that she found out in time how untrustworthy he is. It is bad enough to be jilted, but it is nothing to being an abandoned wife.

Of course, this man is still in love with his former sweetheart and evidently still carrying on an affair with her, otherwise he would not have ditched your friend without even taking the trouble to investigate the charges that this jealous mistress made against her. When a man really loves a woman he turns a deaf ear to all criticisms of her.

But the most wonderful thing in the world is why woman can go on loving a man after he has proved himself unworthy and hoping that he will come back to her, when he was never worth having and has proved himself unfit for her to wipe her feet on. Funny creatures, women, as not only this letter, but the one that precedes it shows. As Exhibit A and B of how women's hearts work they deserve a place in a museum of freaks.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a girl of 16. Have gone steady for more than a year with one boy. Do you think I am too young to be going steady?

C. O. D.

Answer:

I don't think a girl at any age, whether she is 16 or 116, should go steady with a boy until the engagement is announced and the day set for the wedding.

There are two good reasons for this: One is that no girl should marry until she has known a lot of boys and gone around with them so that she can be sure that the one she is going with is the one she really likes best. Give 'em the onceover before you make your pick.

The second reason is that if a girl goes steady with one boy and has no other friends among the boys she is left flat if he gets tired of her and leaves her for another girl.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

A. B. C's IN MANNERS

Dear Mrs. Post: The following questions are those written by individuals in our Girl's Club, and all have to do with introductions. Will you please answer them separately, explain the reason for your answer where you think necessary.

1. When introduced to young children, does an older person offer her hand?

Answer: First of all, an older person may not be introduced to young children. Young children are always introduced to an older person, and the older person should offer her hand and also say something to the child. A little girl curtseys, and a boy bows, as he or she shakes hands.

2. When young women are introduced, is it considered more polite for them to shake hands? And who is expected to offer her hand first?

Answer: When they are standing close together they do shake hands, but when one is across the room, she seldom comes forward to shake hands. If one is seated and the one standing offers her hand, the one seated must rise before taking it.

3. When some one has received a high honor or has been granted a degree, should a person shake hands when congratulating him?

Answer: Not necessarily. Whether one shakes hands depends upon circumstances. If congratulations are offered in passing, no; if standing beside the person congratulated, yes.

4. I am young and work in an office for two eminent professional people who are very much older than I, but both congenial and pleasant. When either of them goes away on a business or pleasure trip, would it be assuming too much if I should offer my hand in bidding him good-bye and also when welcoming him back? Or am I supposed to wait for them to make the first move and never to show one bit of spontaneous feeling myself?

Answer: You could smile as brightly as you like, and welcome him back with every evidence of pleasure without shaking hands. On the other hand, there would be no reason why you shouldn't shake hands if you want to, but people who work in the same office are seldom inclined to shake hands with each other.

5. Is it correct for a young woman to say "I'm glad to have met you" to a man?

Answer: On some occasions, yes. But not unless they have heard something about each other beforehand, or unless they have found each other congenial.

Newlyweds Must Give Dance for Whole Town

St. Mary's, Ia.—(AP)—No one gets married and settles in this little German-Irish community without treating the whole town to a wedding dance.

A general telephone call on all lines leading out from town summons the neighbors to dance at the town hall in the evening of the wedding day.

If such an invitation has not been broadcast within two weeks after the marriage, the townspeople gather for a charivari—and this always brings the desired results.

A wooden salad bowl of the old-fashioned chopping variety makes an attractive center piece for the autumn party if it is filled with assorted appetizers. Surround the bowl with flowers, colored leaves or evergreens.

If Child Wants to Learn His Progress Is Rapid

BY ANGELO PATRI

"Now, Marie, it is time for your sewing."

"O, I don't want to sew. I can't sew."

"Yes, you can. You may just as well make up your mind that you are going to learn because I mean you shall. Every girl needs to sew."

"Katherine doesn't sew. Her mother never makes her sew. I don't see why I have to sew. What's the good of it? I'll buy my clothes in the stores, won't I?"

"Maybe. Just the same you have to know how to make your own, so if you have to you can. Come. I have the goods all ready. Now pin on the pattern. No. Not that way. You know better than that. Put those holes along the straight of the goods."

"I don't know what you mean."

"Yes you do. You're not so stupid. See that fold? Isn't it straight? Well, lay the goods along that line."

"O, goodness! I can't do this. It slips all the time. This goods isn't any good anyhow. I hate to sew slippery things. There. The pins won't stay in."

"I'll pin it. Nothing could be easier. So. Now cut it. Can't you cut on a line?"

"I don't see any line. The edge of the paper is too thin. Can I help it if it tears? It's too thin, I told you."

"You're just trying to get out of it."

"I am not. It gives me a headache. I've got such a headache now I can't see, all on account of this sewing mess I told you I couldn't sew."

"Just the same you're going to. Now thread your needle and baste these two together along that line. The sooner you get it done the better."

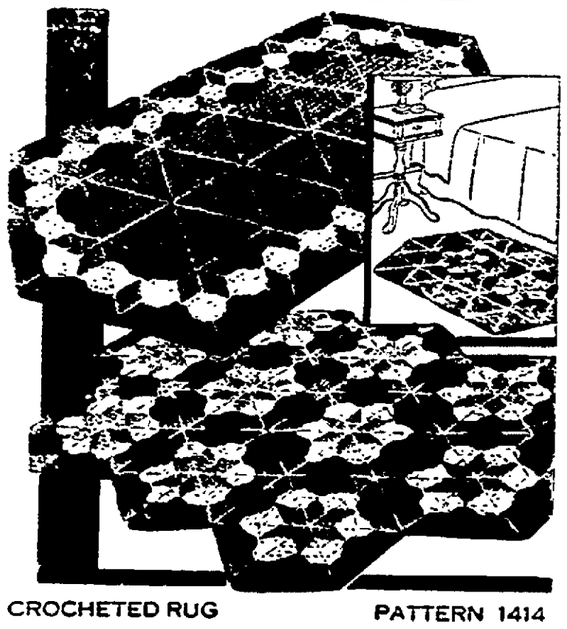

"Can I go then? Is my time up now?"

I've never known teaching that goes against the will of the child like that to do any good. The mother did whatever sewing was done, not the child, for what one does under the power of another bears no relation to the person under governance. The child did not sew although she did hold the needle and make the motions. Mother sewed because mother's will was sewing.

Some compulsion may be needed at times. Few children grow up without its exercise upon them at one time or another. But compulsion does not teach. Teaching involves two minds, and one of these minds has to be receptive, wide open and active to receive or nothing is learned. It is time wasted to force teaching upon any child. Learning is an individual and spontaneous matter. When a child wants to learn, when his will to learn has been awakened, he learns fast and surely. Otherwise, no.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

'Souls at Sea' Is Showing at Rio

Cooper, Raft, Frances Dee Head Cast of Sea Picture

A glance back at motion pictures for the last decade reveals the rather surprising fact that most of the big epoch-setting films were stories of the sea. "Down to the Sea in Ships," "The Sea Wolf," "The Sea Beast," "Captain Blood," "Mutiny on the Bounty" and "Captains Courageous" are a few films which bear this out.

Now comes another, as big and as epochal as any—the powerful, dramatic and beautifully filmed motion picture "Souls at Sea," which opened a five day run at the Rio Theatre last night.

Here is a motion picture, taken from an actual occurrence in history, so skillfully directed and acted and so masterfully produced and photographed that its place among the great motion pictures of all time is assured. The cast is headed by Gary Cooper, George Raft and Frances Dee, which should be enough to lift it into the top ranks at once. But its dramatic, well-told story, rugged in its appeal and massive in its scope, transcends even what the skillful cast could do to make it perfect entertainment.

"Souls at Sea" is based on a famous trial in the last century which concerned the guilt of one "Nuggin" Taylor, a sea captain, who assumed command of the bark "William Brown" when the vessel took fire at sea.

The story is told in flashback. It begins with the trial and then goes into the story of the ill-fated journey of the "William Brown," reaching its powerful climax back in the court room where a jury holds Cooper's fate in its hands.

To single out any one actor for meritorious work would be rank injustice to the others. Suffice it to say that Cooper turns in what is probably the best performance of his brilliant career. George Raft as "Powdah," Taylor's hard-boiled side-kick, is masterly, as is Miss Dee. The cast also includes Henry Wilcoxon, Harry Carey, Olympe Branda, Robert Cummings, Porter Hall and many others.

APPEAR IN 'CAFE METROPOLE

A gay and lightsome Continental romance, luxurious as orchids on ermine, smart as the Rue de la Paix, merry as the third glass of champagne, romantic as moonlight on the Seine, "Cafe Metropole" opens at the Elite Theatre for 3 days starting next Wednesday with Loretta Young, Tyrone Power and Adolphe Menjou in the starring roles.

Against the background of gay Parce and the Continent's most luxurious rendezvous, the screen's most exciting lovers play love's most exciting game, while M'sieu Menjou throws away the rule book and Gregory Ratoff, Charles Winninger and Helen Westley join in the fun.

STAR IN MUSICAL 'THIN ICE'

Dazzling in its undreamed-of crystal-tipped spectacle, snow-drenched with shimmering Alpine beauty, exhilarating in its fresh, gay out-of-doors romance that will fill your eyes with delight and open them wide with wonder, "Thin Ice," magnificent musical starring Sonja Henie, the "one in a million girl," and Tyrone Power, handsome young screen star, will open an engagement at the Rio theater starting next Friday.

Elite Theater to Show 'Wings of the Morning'

The flaming romance of a lovely fugitive fleeing from strife-torn Spain, "Wings of the Morning," Twentieth Century-Fox release showing at the Elite Theatre, on Monday and Tuesday, Bargain Days introduces a new and exciting screen personality in Annabella, starred with Henry Fonda and Leslie Banks in the film, which presents the world-famous tenor, John McCormack.

Brought to the screen in all the lifelike beauty of natural Technicolor, "Wings of the Morning" provides a thrilling mixture of drama, spectacle and surprise, including the spectacular changing of the Guard at Buckingham Palace, home of English Kings, and the most sensational Derby ever run, with jockey Steve Donoghue riding his most thrilling race.

Breathtaking in its sweeping drama, the film acquires a new beauty and dimension through its natural, perfected Technicolor, so lifelike and beautiful that you'll think you've never seen color on the screen before.

The Dog Owner and His Dog

BY ALLAN KERR

The caretaker of this department admits that he gets a little jittery at this time of the year, when the column goes to the hunting dogs and almost everything else is excluded. There is no intention to slight the many other family pets, but it must be remembered that during the next few weeks, the sporting dog is king in this neck-of-the-woods and must be honored accordingly.

Allan Kerr

There are very few complaints, however. Dog owners evidently realize that there is always a long winter ahead in which to give plenty of ink to the pekes, Scotties, fox-terriers, Bostons, St. Bernards or what have you. Another thing to keep in mind is the fact that, according to registrations, the cocker spaniel is the most popular dog in America today. And this merry little worker is a hunting dog.

The beagle and the springer spaniel are up near the top of the heap. Perhaps the sporting breeds rate higher in public favor than many people realize, so if this chatter about them seems to bore some otherwise attentive dog owners, excuse it, please. We'll "swing it" on another subject, come Thanksgiving.

Favors Spaniel

We often hear talk about the all 'round hunting dog. Is there such a critter? If so, it has never been our pleasure to hunt over one. We hope to see the day when this fond wish will be granted, but until that time we'll stick to the old spaniel. He'll flush within gun-shot and retrieve to perfection, as will the Chesapeake Bay, Labrador and others. They will seldom point.

There is a breed, however, that they claim will do it all. Although an importation, it has gained rapidly in favor in the United States during the last few years, and if other sportsmen discover what has already been experienced by some, the German shorthaired pointer is destined to a great era of popularity as well as usefulness.

Ed Ashley a gun maker's representative in this territory, tells us some very interesting facts about his German shorthair, whenever the opportunity presents itself, which would indicate that he is really sold on the breed. He seems to feel that the dog is not at all over rated and will do the things claimed if he is of good breeding, properly trained and is given the opportunity. Ed has had experience no end and should know whereof he speaks.

Pointer Is Versatile

The German shorthaired pointer will, it is claimed, point birds staunchly, use his strong, web feet to propel him swiftly to ducks dropped in lake or slough, trail rabbits or 'coon and is an excellent land retriever. In addition to these accomplishments he has a good disposition and makes a fine pet and watch-dog. Is there anything else we can do for you, mister?

These pointers range in weight from 45 to 70 pounds, are more stockily built than their English and American cousins and are limited to just one color combination. They may be liver and white spotted, liver and white ticked, a combination of both or just plain liver. The coat is quite dense and harsh to the touch. The tail is docked so that three fifths of its length remains.

For the one dog man, here seems to be the one man dog which will fill his requirements. One of the few kennels breeding the German shorthaired pointer in the United States is located in Sturgeon Bay.

Comedy 'Topper' To be Shown Here

Constance Bennett With Cary Grant in Gay Romance

The Hal Roach-M-G-M superfeature comedy, "Topper," opening a week from Sunday at the Appleton theater, streamlines spectacularly into the ultra-modern and futuristic realms of entertainment.

Luxury and richness provide the background for the fast-moving action and hilarious humor of the new picture, based on Thorne Smith's delightful novel of whimsy, wit and satire.

Co-starring Constance Bennett and Cary Grant, with Roland Young as "Topper," and a supporting cast which includes Billie Burke, Alan Mowbray and Eugene Pallette in featured roles, provided Director Norman McLeod with outstanding players to enact the astounding merry mirthquake of episodes.

The luxurious wardrobes shown promise new creations for next season's styles. Samuel Murray Lange, noted stylist, returned to the Roach studios direct from Paris to design and execute the gorgeous gowns for Miss Bennett and Miss Burke, who are already world renowned as lovely ladies of foremost fashions.

Advanced technical fashions introduced are a futuristic automobile roadster and an ultra-modern streamlined railroad coach.

The spectacular sets of "Topper" include scenes in a fashionable resort hotel, a de luxe penthouse, a colonial home, a Wall Street bank and a battery of night clubs.

Hollywood—The two neighborhood urchins who had climbed the studio fence to see the fun wanted to know if it would be a real fire or just a fake.

It was real and if anybody who sees "In Old Chicago" thinks it wasn't I'm here totestify that my whiskers felt singed even at their usual safe distance behind the cameras.

$500,000 Fire

Most people love a fire when it isn't their own but Darryl Zanuck loves a fire enough to gamble $500,000 on the hot sequences alone of his pet production. When the movies play with fire it is serious play. Fire is one actor they can't mollycoddle into more than one "take." It accepts direction badly, and it has more temperament than Dietrich, Mae West and Garbo combined.

That is why Director Henry King, getting ready for a "take," looks like a man who can't decide whether going crazy would be nicer after all. He carries a tiny megaphone but when he spiels orders to the firemen and extras he uses a loudspeaker. Things seem to be going wrong. The firemen, unaccustomed as they are to firefighting as Chicago did it in 1871, seem to be all thumbs in handling the antiquated equipment.

Real Panic

King goes to try it himself, then orders a rehearsal—without the fire. The scene becomes pandemonium but only mildly.

Just before the 'take" the studio smokepots get going, belching black clouds over the scene. And then—the fire. All at once, like that, Mrs. O'Leary's house spits fire. From neighboring roofs and windows great sheets of flame leap forth, hissing and roaring. A tree in the street, brittle and dry, joins the mad chorus of flame—and this time the panic is real—or looks it. The firemen are frantic, pouncing on their ladders while faint streams of water attack the inferno. The women and children are scurrying past the camera, fast as they can, to get out of the heat.

Kerosene Does It

It's all over in two minutes. With this breeze blowing and all, I've been backing away looking for quick exits in case the whole lot decides to play old Chicago. But while the movie firemen are collecting their extra's checks, real firemen are putting out the fire with modern equipment.

STARS IN NEW SHOW

An unusual screen comedy drama with music, Universal's "100 Men and a Girl," starring Deanna Durbin, begins its weeks run at the Appleton Theatre tomorrow. There are 200 reasons why the people in this city will want to see the outstanding movie. The first 100 reasons are Deanna Durbin herself. Many of the other causes will be set forth in this review.

First there is Deanna's singing. Her lovely trained voice, clear, round and true, gives her songs fresh beauty. She shows remarkable versatility in the widely varied range of her numbers. It is both amazing and satisfying to hear her rendering of Mozart's "Alleluja," and then the aria, "Libiamo" from Verdi's "La Traviata," after she does the popular offerings, and the new popular song "It's Raining Sunbeams."

But the little 14 year old girl is more than a splendid singer. She proves she is an actress capable of portraying all shades of human emotion, although this is only her second picture. The fine beginning she made in "Three Smart Girls" is excelled in "100 Men and a Girl" Deanna has delivered. She measures up to the responsibility her producers placed on her when they made her a star and hung the film offering on her young shoulders.

Another reason for the entertainment value of the picture is Leopold Stokowski, who conducts the orchestra of 100 musicians through several offerings of stirring appeal World famous as the leader of the Philadelphia Symphony, he now presents music through the medium of the screen, so that all audiences may know how beautiful great music can be.

On the same bill theatre goers will see. The eternal question of whether a criminal lawyer should defend and attempt to clear a murderer even though he definitely knows he is guilty, is brought forward again as an integral part of the plot of Columbia's "Counsel For Crime."

Western Show Is On Now at Elite

Charles Starrett Stars in Peter B. Kyne Production

Columbia's new Peter B Kyne production, "Trapped", is being shown at the Elite Theatre today and Sunday. With handsome Charles Starrett, America's ace cowboy star, in the leading role, this fine outdoor film unfolds a thrilling story of the old west.

With lovely Peggy Stratford, a charming newcomer to the screen, as his leading lady and love interest, Starrett is seen as a young rancher who discovers his brother dying from wounds and hears him gasp the name of "Rothert" as his slayer.

Rothert, supposedly an honest rancher, who is crippled and confined to a wheel chair, is in reality the chief of a murderous gang of western bad men. His city-bred niece, played by Miss Stratford, has come to stay at his ranch. She knows nothing of his criminal activities. Starrett meets the girl and the two fall in love.

Starrett, out to avenge his brother's death, is puzzled as to how the cripple Rothert could have committed the crime. He still suspects him, though, and in a dramatic showdown, discovers his guilt.

The supporting cast includes Allan Sears, Ted Oliver, Lew Meehan, Edward Peil, Sr., and Jack Rockwell.

LIQUOR CHIEF WELL PAID

Sacramento—(AP)—As a result of a recent pay increase, California's liquor law chief, George M. Stout, now draws $10,000 a year, the same salary as Gov. Frank F. Merriam.

Triple Attraction to Open Wednesday at Rio

Triple-barreled entertainment will be offered at the Rio theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, when in addition to "Forty Naughty Girls" and "Women Men Marry," that dynamic radio personality and America's new boy-friend Charlie McCarthy and his partner, Edgar Bergen, will be presented in their latest hilarious attraction, "A Neckin' Party."

"Forty Naughty Girls," the detective thriller, brings the noted puzzle-solving team of Inspector Oscar Piper and Hildegarde Withers to the screen for the sixth time and deals with two mysterious killings in a metropolitan theatre during a performance. Faced with the necessity of letting the show go on while they try to find the murderer, the two sleuths run into problems that tax the ingenuity of the audience as well as their own talents.

James Gleason, who has enacted the role of the cocky cigar-chewing Oscar in the five previous pictures based upon Stuart Palmer's famous detective characters, again plays the part in the new offering, with Zasu Pitts once more using her intuitive faculties to solve the riddle.

An interesting and extremely unusual newspaper story is told in "The Women Men Marry."

George Murphy, sensational favorite of "Broadway Melody of 1938" is an excellent reporter. Josephine Hutchinson is the girl reporter and Cliff Edwards, the "Ukulele Ike" of stage, radio and screen, is the cameraman. Claire Dodd portrays the reporter's unfaithful wife and Sidney Blackmer is commanding as the managing editor. Others in the cast whose work is uniformly good are John Wray, Helen Jerome Eddy and Toby Wing.

Chapter 52

TED GIVES HIMSELF UP

FOR a long moment the two men glared at each other, unconscious for the time being of anything but the conflict of will between them. Then Ted's hand dropped to his side.

"You're right about that," he agreed "But I have a better weapon than a gun. I reckon I won't need your confession after all." He put his hand in his pocket and pulled out the notebook Kay had given him. I'll just quote you a few extracts from this diary that was found in the cellar of the blacksmith shop at Clear Water. I know it by heart."

"It's all lies!" Josh Hastings broke in hoarsely on Ted's recital. "It's a frame up!"

"It is not!" Kay faced him with blazing eyes. "And I have another piece of evidence to prove you were on the spot!"

"And I can testify that Ted Gaynor swore again and again in his delirium that he had seen you bending over him" Marion added her voice to the chorus of accusation.

"Sure you can," Josh Hastings screamed in sudden frenzy. "And I can testify that you're all lying, lying, lying, do you hear Oh-h'" He gave a groan and toppled back, moaning, "My head! My head!"

In a second, Marion was kneeling beside him, expertly bracing his head against her knee, while he muttered inarticularly.

"It looks like a stroke," she whispered to Ted. "Have you any water?"

Ted made for his saddle, and pulled off the canteen. "A little. Not much." He held it out to her.

Marion tried to force some between Josh Hastings' teeth, but unsuccessfully. With a final moan, he slumped to the ground unconscious, and breathing in heavy, stentorian gasps

"It is a stroke," Marion rose to her feet. "He may come out of it, and he may not. What shall we do?"

"There's only one thing to do," Ted answered. "We'll have to take him with us to Clear Water. I'll give him and myself up there. We'll have to leave the decision of who's guilty up to the Red River jury."

Dissolving A Misunderstanding

Accepting Ted's decision as final, the two girls helped him lift Josh Hastings onto his horse.

"Across that third ridge," Ted announced. "we ought to strike the Clear Water trail. Are you girls good for it?"

He looked inquiringly from Marion to Kay, and Kay felt her heart contract as she caught the subtle change in his expression as his eyes shifted to her.

After the first wild moment of abandon, Ted had hardly spoken to her, except to address her generally, with Marion. And now all the warmth of that first passionate embrace had given way to a hard cold impersonality.

As clearly as though he had spoken his thoughts aloud, Kay knew what was in his mind. She joined perfunctorily in Marion's assertion that they were ready for anything, but as Ted started off, leading his horse with his unconscious burden, Kay grabbed Marion's hand and held her back.

'Let me go ahead with Ted," she whispered With an understanding nod, Marion made way for her to pass, and dropped a few paces behind.

'Ted"

Ted started as Kay's voice close beside him She slipped her fingers into his free hand, which hung loosely at his side, and clutched on to is convulsively, in spite of its lack of response to her clasp.

"Ted, you must listen to me!" she began desperately. "I didn't tell Zeke Farley where you were! You must believe me! It wasn't until Shorty told me, after I got back, that I knew what Tom Runyon had testified at the trial!" In a few broken words she told of having seen him and Marion together, and her frantic race for him, and the fall from Flicker's back.

"I was delirious when Tom Runyon found me, and for two days afterwards," she ended. "I was mad with jealousy, Ted! Heaven knows what I said, but whatever it was, I wasn't responsible."

"Jealously!" Ted exclaimed, a mad happiness coming into his voice as he dropped his mount's bridle, and putting a hand on each arm held Kay off at arm's length. "Why were you jealous?"

"Because I love you," Kay whispered, her head proudly high and her eyes on his, in spite of the wild beating of her heart.

The next instant, she was in his arms and all the bitterness of misunderstanding was cleared away in the blissful interval that followed. A bewildered whinny before them and a soft laugh behind, brought them back to the present.

"That's all very well," Marion's voice broke in, 'but don't you think we'd better be going on?"

With a happy laugh, Kay broke away from Ted, and stepped back beside Marion, while Ted ran ahead to catch up with his burdened mount.

Familiar Voices

Up and down they went, until at last the first streaks of dawn found them following the crest of the ridge along whose cliffs, 50 feet or more below them, the trail to Clear Water Basin wound.

Suddenly Ted stopped, and motioned them to be still. Below them, on the trail, they could hear horses' hoofs and voices. By listening intently, they managed to make out the words. Kay grabbed Ted's arm convulsively, as she recognized the two voices that were speaking.

"Nothing to do now, but let it burn itself out. If they hadn't sent

K-C Company to Erect Addition To Main Office

Award Contract to Oshkosh Contractor, Work to Start Immediately

Neenah — The Fluor Brothers Construction company, Oshkosh, has been awarded the contract to build a new wing to the main office of the Kimberly-Clark corporation in Neenah, S. F. Shattuck, vice president, announced today.

Work will start on the new office addition immediately, Shattuck said, and the new wing will increase the size of the building a little less than one-third.

The addition will house the treasury department, legal department, land office, directors room and additions to the engineering department.

The new wing will be the same size as the present two wings except that there will be no offices on the north side of the corridor. The present corridor which leads west from the N. Commercial street entrance will be extended west and the wing will be attached to the south side of the proposed extended corridor.

The reason that offices will not be constructed on the north side of the corridor is that one of the mills adjacent to the office takes up that space.

3-Story Structure

The new wing will be three stories high and the various offices to occupy the new addition will be modernly equipped.

The new addition is part of $4,000,000 expansion program being carried out by the Kimberly-Clark corporation for needed productive facilities.

Kimberly-Clark's Lakeview mill is receiving the most benefit from the expansion program and reports are that all machinery used in the production of Kotex will be transferred to the Lakeview mill this fall. The buildings which house the Kotex manufacturing department at present may be used as a storehouse or turned into office departments.

Commission Studies Water Plant Operation

Neenah—Operating conditions at the Neenah water works were discussed at a meeting of the water commission held Friday night at the city hall.

There were no reports made on the 60-day experiment currently being carried out at the plant with the Wisconsin Michigan Power company's transformer and power to pump drinking water for the city because the experiment is only two weeks old and nothing definite could be determined at this time.

The purpose of the experiment is to determine whether it is more economical to keep the municipal water works plant in continuous operation by substituting a 150 kilowatt transformer for the two engines previously used to generate power.

Jobless Youths Get Letters on CCC Enrolment

Employment Service Cooperating With Relief Department

Neenah—Nearly 100 letters are being sent to Neenah-Menasha boys between the ages of 17 and 23 by the Twin Cities office of the Wisconsin State Employment service informing the youths of the possibilities offered them at civilian conservation corps camps, Harry D. Gates, manager, reported today.

The employment service is cooperating with the relief department so that all eligible young men desiring to enroll in the corps may have the opportunity.

Young men who will receive these letters today have their names in the active files of the service as being unemployed at the present time, Gates said.

"For that reason we are writing boys regarding opportunities in the CCC now available to unemployed young men who are in need of employment," Gates explained.

Educational Program

"As now organized the CCC is no longer primarily a relief program," he added, "but it is an educational and employment program. The CCC provides educational opportunities in accordance with the desires of the enrollee in the various camps. In addition to educational training the CCC also furnishes to enrollees valuable work experience under trained supervision.

"Young men between the ages of 17 and 23 inclusive, who are unemployed and in need of employment, who are physically fit and who wish to secure this training, may now be enrolled if they agree to send an allotment of $25 a month to their families," the employment manager pointed out.

Officials Discuss Means of Raising Funds for School

Boards, Commissions Confer With Council on Equipment Problem

Menasha—Members of the various boards and commissions of the city of Menasha met with the city council at the city hall yesterday to confer on means of providing funds to purchase equipment for the new Menasha high school building. The concensus of opinion seemed to favor securing the money by increased taxes rather than increasing the bonded indebtedness of the city.

William Kellett, member of the board of education, said that approximately $119,000 would be necessary to completely equip the new school. However, certain features such as the swimming pool, could be left uncompleted and the school could be placed in operation for less money.

The council some months ago offered the board of education $42,000 and this amount was again requested. In addition there is about $38,000 available for equipment in the possession of the school board and jointly with the vocational board of education.

No Action Taken

Because the meeting was called for discussion and consideration of the problem, no definite action was taken. R. J. Fink, member of the library board, stated that all commissions and boards could limit their expenses further to help decrease the tax burden. All board members offered their cooperation. R. E. Thickens, sewage commission, emphatically advised payment of back debts and adoption of a "pay as you go" plan. The expenditures of the council for sewage systems and other projects were commended as worthwhile.

Other board members who were heard included C. E. Pierce, president of the school board; Cyril Perrenboom, library board; George Banta, park board; E. V. Weber, sewage commission; R. G. DuCharme, fire and police commission; H. C. Vetter, fire and police commission; R. M. Sensenbrenner, vocational education board; Ted Gilbert, park board; Mayor W. E. Held; James Emerson, planning commission, and William Jensen, board of education.

Menasha — With 55 members in attendance, the Menasha Economics club, state and national Federated Woman's club, opened its fall and winter program at a one o'clock luncheon Friday afternoon at Riverview Country club, Appleton. Urging active participation in a safety drive which the federated clubs are conducting this year, Mrs. Verbrick quoted from a letter from Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, national federation president, telling of the drive and its importance. "We can't stress safety enough," said Mrs. Verbrick, "and it's up to the women to talk safety and, as drivers of cars, to do their part in driving safely."

Mrs. C. A. Peerenboom, program chairman, presented the 1937-38 program to the club and distributed booklets. Headlined on the Menasha club's program for fall and winter are Mrs. Anita Willets Burnham, author and traveler, George Banta, executive of Banta Publishing company, Menasha, Ethel D. Bryan, Ripon college speaker, Mary Erdlitz, Oshkosh girl who is with the circus, Dr. Loren Dickelman, medical director, Oshkosh Teachers college, and Peter Giovanni, art director, Appleton Public schools.

Mrs. Frank Broeren sang "Wayfarer's Night Song" and "Ah, Love, But a Day!" during the program. She was accompanied by Mrs. E. H. Schultz at the piano.

After the members had signed the constitution which had been printed in Old English in a leather bound book by Mary Louise Johnson, daughter of Mrs. Mae Redner Johnson, club secretary, bridge was played.

Honors in contract went to Mrs. H. J. C. Rosenow, Mrs. Paul Kalfahs, Mrs. Emil Schultz and in auction to Mrs. Charles Bailar, Mrs. John Handeyside and Mrs. Lester Weinbergen.

HEARING FACTS

Most people think of deafness as a gradual fading of all sounds but such is rarely the case. If you are becoming deafened, make this test on yourself:

1. Can you hear the creak of a door or the high tones of a piano or organ at a twenty foot distance?
2. Can you hear low pitch sounds such as thunder or the low tones of a piano or saxaphone?

These various types of deafness require different pitch corrections which are available in the new Audicle perfected by SONOTONE. Sonotone is approved by the American Medical Association. See your local ear specialist. If he cannot help you, ask him about SONOTONE.

An Audioscope test will reveal the correction best suited to your needs. Come in for a free test and consultation or phone for a home appointment.

Kaukauna, Little Chute Officials to Confer On Problem

Kaukauna — A committee composed of Aldermen Otto Ludtke, chairman of the north road district, G. S. Mulholland and Jule Mertes will confer next week with Little Chute officials in regard to the naming of new Highway 41 through Kaukauna and Little Chute.

A letter was received at the last council meeting from the traffic engineer of the Wisconsin Highway commission asking that an attempt be made to give the same name to the street in both Kaukauna and Little Chute.

The road enters the city of Kaukauna near the former Hyland farm and leaves the city near the Holy Cross cemetery, thus becoming a city street and needing a name.

The letter from the traffic engineer said it looked as if the Little Chute street would be called North street, and suggested that Kaukauna might wish to adopt the same name. The committee will report to the council at their next meeting, Tuesday, Oct. 5.

Kaws Look Better In Final Practice

Squad Confident on Eve of Conference Tilt With Clintonville Today

Kaukauna—The usual light signal practice held on Fridays turned out to be a little more strenuous than expected yesterday for Coach Paul E. Little's charges as the finishing touches were put on their preparations for today's game with the Clintonville squad. A general air of confidence seemed to run through the squad, with all indications pointing to the Kaws' first conference victory this afternoon.

Practices of the last week have been both good and bad, but towards the end of the week the gridders have been showing polish sadly lacking in the game at Shawano last Saturday, where the Littlemen defended their Northeastern conference title by just about losing it the first game.

Last night Little spent some time with his second team and if the regulars get out in front of the Trucks today by a safe margin it is expected most of the members of the squad will see action.

BY GORDON McINTYRE

GREEN BAY — Virtually run right out of the Green Bay West stadium during the first half, Appleton High school gridders capitalized on an intercepted forward pass and a placekick to defeat the Wildcats here last night, 10 to 6, in the first Valley conference game for the squads.

Arndt

During that first half the Terrors were anything except such. They were outcharged and back on their heels when on defense and when on offense they got nowheres, excepting a couple reverses that caught the Bays unawares.

The intermission between the halves saw the squad get a good verbal lacing as to its attitude and with a few corrective words, it came out and chased the Wildcats around the grid for most of the last two quarters. Defensively it was a team so changed that you'd never recognize it while offensively a couple recruits showed just enough stuff to make Coach Wallace Cole wonder who has the most possibilities.

Harmsen

That first half beating probably did the Terrors a lot of good for it should have brought them down to earth. The whole game should indicate to them they've a lot of work left on offense. Chuck Sample again called the plays and left much to be desired. First of all, he didn't use himself for lugging the ball half enough in view of his size, speed and drive. On the other hand he used Fred Oliver until the red head was ready to drop for all of his running around and he was so bushed he never returned to the game after the half intermission.

Sonny Filz worked in the tailback position in the first half but he didn't get much blocking on

Little Favorite in Belmont Tourney

Snead, Manero Eliminated As Golfers Hit 3rd Round

Belmont, Mass.—(AP)— Lawson Little of San Francisco, last remaining favorite in Belmont's $12,000 open tournament, matched strokes against a former open titlist, Johnny Farrell, today as an all-star group of the nation's top flight golfers met in the third round.

Little became the favorite with the defeat of Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Denny Shute, Boston's 2-time P. G. A. champion.

The former amateur king was a 6-1 favorite to capture the $3,000 first money in Tuesday's final.

Farrell holed a 15-foot putt on the 19th yesterday to knock out Jimmy Demaret of Texas then came back to whip Tony Manero of Salem, Mass., the medalist, by a decisive 5 and 4 margin in the second round.

Little eliminated Art Straub of Brielle, N. J., 3 and 2, then Ernie Mashie of Fitchburg, Mass., 5 and 3.

Beloit Gets First Win In Two Years of Trying

Beloit—(AP)— Beloit college scored its first grid victory in two years last night when it beat Dubuque university 8 to 6 in a game decided by a blocked punt in the third quarter.

Beloit scored in the opening minutes of play on a 45-yard touchdown pass from Virgili, quarterback, to left halfback Gates. Dubuque tied the count in the second quarter with a 32-yard drive to a touchdown. Both kicks for points were wide.

Beloit added the winning two points in the third quarter by blocking a Dubuque punt for a safety.

Last-Half Drive Gives Warner 300th Victory

Philadelphia—(AP)— After waiting nearly a year, Glenn S. "Pop" Warner, the "old fox" of intercollegiate football, today had gained his 300th victory in 43 years of coaching.

Three times last year Warner, now coach at Temple university, was on the verge of reaching this notable milestone in his career, only to see his team lose to Iowa and St. Mary's and be held to a tie by Bucknell.

Last night, however, his 1937 Temple eleven opened the season by toppling Virginia Military institute, 18 to 7, pushing over two touchdowns in the second half after a 77-yard run by Red Echols, V. M. I. guard, gave the southerners a 7 to 6 edge at halftime.

Warner, now 67, coached at Iowa state, Georgia, Cornell, Carlisle Indians, Pittsburgh and Stanford.

GREEN BAY — Idle until their game here with the Detroit Lions Oct. 3, the Green Bay Packers will rest Sunday while six other National Professional Football league teams continued their struggle for 1937 honors.

Also without a Sunday game are the Detroit Lions and the Chicago Bears, undefeated in the Western division, and Washington of the Eastern division.

The Packers' pair of losses without a victory are an exact opposite of Detroit's two-win record, and the Green Bay team will have to turn back the Lions if it hopes to get into the championship picture. A crowd of nearly 17,000, equalling the record turnout for the Bear game last week, is expected to attend.

Meanwhile Cleveland, infant member of the league, will attempt to better its standing at the expense of Brooklyn, and the Chicago Cardinals will take the field against the hapless Philadelphia Eagles.

Blood's Team Sets Pace

Johnny Blood's Pittsburgh Pirates, pace setters of the eastern division, will be at home to the New York Giants in an important contest that may turn some light on the title possibilities for both elevens.

The Packers have been practicing since Wednesday after a two-day lay-off following their loss to the Chicago Bears. With the exception of Arnold Herber, the entire squad is in shape including Ed Smith, newest member of the team. Smith, former N. Y. U. and Boston pro back, was signed by Coach Curley Lambeau last week to fill a shortage of passers.

A possibility that Herber will be able to play against the Lions depends upon an examination by the club physician next week.

High School Boys Show Interest in Bowling Meet

Interest in the proposed intramural bowling tournament for boys at Appleton High school was evidenced yesterday when a notice was posted on the school bulletin board. Seven boys registered within the first hour including Kenneth VanHeuklin, John Kohl, Thomas Hom, Milton Berger, John Trautman, Gervace Blick, and James Schultz. VETERANS ON RED GRID TEAM

Appleton Reds Meet Manitowoc Here Sunday

APPLETON Reds football team, defeated last night at Clintonville, 14 to 0, will attempt to get back in the win column here at 2:15 Sunday afternoon at the Spencer street athletic field. It will be the first home game for the Appleton team and Manitowoc, coached by Bill Schroeder, former Lawrence freshman coach, will be the opponent.

The Reds have been drilling hard every evening this week and are in perfect condition. They also have been outfitted with new uniforms made possible by subscriptions from merchants and friends. Special arrangements have been made for seating spectators on bleacher seats.

George Walter, former Lawrence college gridder, will be with the Reds again Sunday at fullback. Others on the squad this year who have been showing promise are J. Block, J. Clark, Runge and Resch of Menasha and Reider and Len Brasch, former Appleton high stars.

The Reds' starting lineup probably will have Palmbach and Brasch at the ends, Marx and Jansen at the tackles, Don Green and Casper at the guards and Eggert at center. In the backfield the starters probably will be F. Block, Eddie Sanders, K. Strutz and Salm.

Manitowoc's squad will be lighter than the Reds but the invaders hope to make up for the difference by their speed. The men are former Manitowoc high performers among others, Frank Bonk, Howard Rezach and Ray Rosinsky, ends; Mike Musial, Harv Rosinsky and Cas Gray, tackles; Art Mrotek, Marv Korlesky and Albie LeClair, guards; Frank Bonk and Max Mrotek, centers; Cyril Miller, Les Quistorf, Joey Simon, Shorty Galbraith, Sylvester Rohrer, Joe Tadych and Eddie Ulovitz.

Omro and Marion In 13 to 13 Tie

Latter Scores as Result Of Two Blocked Punts

Marion—An old rivalry was revived Friday afternoon when the Omro highs and Marion struggled through a football contest here, which ended in a tie, 13 to 13.

Omro kicked off to Marion to its 3-yard line and Marion made three first downs on end runs and line smashes but Omro stiffened its defense and Marion was forced to punt. M. Meyer put the ball out of bounds on the six-yard line and Omro punted on first down. The ball was partially blocked and was downed on Omro's 25-yard line. Lorrig made nine yards through center. Meyer five yards around left end and then Lorrig skirted right end for the first touch down. M. Meyer placekicked for the extra point but missed by inches.

Elandt kicked off to Omro's 20 yard line and ball was returned to the 50 yard line by line plays by Kloster and Doll. Passes advanced it to Marion's 15-yard line where the Marion line held for downs.

When the second quarter started Weber picked up five yards, and Lorrig seven for first down but Meyer was forced to punt on the next series of plays and the ball was finally diverted to Omro on the 50 yard line. Omro's star halfback, Kloster, took charge and on the first play picked up 12 yards then 8 and 10 yards when he was stopped on Marion's 2 yard line. He scored on the fourth plunge at the line. A pass for the extra point was incomplete and the half ended 6 to 6.

Marion Blocks Punt

On the start of second half Lorrig returned 60 yards to Omro's 30 yard line and on end runs by Borchardt and Meyer placed the ball on Omro's 5 yard line where it held on downs. As it was punting, Elandt blocked the punt and J. Rogers fell on the ball on the Omro 4-yard line. On the second play at the line Borchardt went over for a touchdown. Extra point was made on a pass from Meyer to Wulk. The quarter ending, Marion 13, Omro 6.

After the kickoff, Omro took the ball on its 40-yard line and it was carried by Kloster, Doll and Bieber to Marion's 15 when a pass from Kloster to Loken was good for a touchdown. Kloster crashed through center for extra point. Score 13 to 13.

In the last plays of the game, Omro threw passes to all corners of the gridiron. M. Meyer intercepted a pass on his 25 yard line and returned it 55 yards to Omro's 20 as the game ended.

Former Climbs Over Hartnett, Waner in National Standings

NEW YORK—(AP)—Johnny Mize of the Cardinals and Cecil Travis of the Senators stole most of the spotlight in the big league hitting parade the past week, althouhg neither figures to take the batting titles from Ducky Medwick or Charley Gehringer, respectively.

Mize, who is having a better sophomore year than his spectacular freshman season, collected 14 hits in 29 chances for a season average of .359, and took second place in the National league from both Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs and Paul Waner of the Pirates.

Travis, comebacking after falling out of the American league several weeks ago, boosted his mark to .350, and marched into third place, over Joe DiMaggio of the Yanks.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon B. McIntyre

SPORTS fans in Appleton and vicinity will have more than their share of entertainment tomorrow. Because the Packers are idle it would appear that almost everyone has scheduled some kind of an athletic event for the day.

Football fans can watch the Appleton Reds and Manitowoc at the Spencer street field or they can watch Little Chute St. Johns and Menasha St. Mary's at Menasha. Baseball fans can go to Greenville where the Merchants and Dais Crow will play the Black Creek club in the second round, playoff of the Outagamie County league, or they can go to Clintonville where New London and the Truckers clash for the Wolf Valley league title, or they can go to Green Bay where Kaukauna and the Sox will tangle for the State league title. The ball games all are afternoon contests.

Six games have been scheduled for the Manitowoc High school Bee football team, it has been announced. Most of the contests are with other Valley conference Bees.

Joe Louis is touring the east with a Negro softball team, as an added attraction. He plays first base when his team's in front. When it's behind he retires and lets someone who can play do the performing. You see, Joe is not allowed to slide for fear of injuries and he doesn't exert himself any more than necessary.

None of his managers are around and all he has is one chap for a body guard. Joe says he isn't worried about being kidnaped, as someone suggested. He says if they had to feed him a couple days they'd soon bring him back.

Incidentally Joe showed that as a fight picker, he's still a good fighter. He picked Pedro Montanez to beat Lew Ambers—and Lew won by a mile.

There are Packer fans and Packer fans, as for instance the one who gave me hell the other day, but even he doesn't compare with a lady at Sturgeon Bay. She read in a recent publication that a Paris seer had said the world would come to an end on Sept. 20, 1937. So she immediately sat down and wrote the following note to Coach Curly Lambeau of the Bays:

"My dear Mr. Lambeau:

"I have been most sad since reading this item in last week's Digest. To think we will not see the Packers win the pennant again! And worse—I shall not see the Packers play at all this year. Previous commitments made it impossible to see the first two games. We planned on celebrating my husband's birthday which is Oct. 3, and my husband's wedding anniversary by seeing the game with the Lions.

"Perhaps we can see it played in the hereafter—I hope so, but just as a sourvenir, to clutch tightly in my hands on that awful day, won't you please send two tickets to the Packer-Lion game? I'm not sending the dough 'cause you can't take it with you when you go.' Neither could I take the tickets on the long trip but I would so cherish them until that time."

Incidentally, it's too bad the Packers aren't playing Johnny Blood's Pirates at the Bay. It would be another sellout. Say what you want to, the vagabond halfback still is a great favorite there, and there are as many people interested in his success as in the Packers.

Manitowoc Man Sets Pace in Boat Races

Washington—(AP)—Doug Fonda, an Orange, N. J., investment banker who took up motor boat racing extensively only two years ago and this season is the country's leading scorer, dominated the initial program of the President's cup regatta yesterday.

While thousands watched from the Potomac river banks and from decks of pleasure craft, the lightweight sportsman drove his Miss Ricochet to the first "double" of the day's racing. He won top honors in the Class A and Class C amateur competitions.

Kenneth Mackenzie, New Haven, Conn., won the Class F open. He was first in the opening race and finished third behind Bob Guttmann, Manitowoc, Wis., in the final heat.

Guttman was forced out of the first heat with motor trouble. Guttman's 52.631 miles per hour in winning the first Class F race was the fastest time of the day.

Superior Wins First Game of Season, 18-0

Superior—(AP)—The Superior State Teachers college football team, scoring twice in the first quarter and again in the third, won its season's opener from Northern State teachers of Aberdeen, S. D., here last night, 18 to 0.

Ted Gentile, of Hurley, carried the ball over for the Yellowjackets' first touchdown. The second marker came in the same period on a 35-yard pass from Frank Paquette, fullback, to Bud Rich, halfback. Paquette scored the final touchdown in the third quarter when he plunged through the line and drove 18 yards.

NEW LONDON — An overpowering West DePere eleven left a battered but game New London squad on the gridiron here last night and walked off with a 25 to 0 victory in its first Northeastern Wisconsin conference game of the season. The one-sided contest was staged under the lights before a large crowd.

Returning with a solid line of veterans, Coach "Nap" VanSistine pounded the small and inexperienced Stacymen throughout the game and what few replacements were made in the second and last quarter still outclassed the green hands of the Wolf river squad.

Connie Berken, the Phantom's half back terror, worked behind a line of dynamite and plowed his way through the relatively flimsy New London line for a total gain of 202 yards, scoring two of the touchdowns and working the ball in position for Vaessen and Heesaker to score. Vaessen made the extra point with a place kick on the first marker but failed in the other attempts.

Roll Up 313 Yards

The strong DePere aggregation rolled up 10 first downs in the first three quarters and gained a total of 313 yards from scrimmage.

Against that was the 33-yard total gained by the muzzled Bulldogs. The latter grabbed 81 yards on seven passes and returned punts another 59 yards for their total gains of the evening. Heesaker twice returned punts 15 yards for DePere while diminutive Phil Clark returned the ball most of the time for New London, leaving the line work to Poepke.

Against overwhelming odds the Red and White squad put forth all it had. With a concerted passing attack in the last period it advanced a total of 72 yards, earned four first downs, and came within 30 yards of the goal when the Phantom's intercepted a pass and ended their nearest approach to the line.

The Phantom's scored early in the second period after a 42-yard drive, the second opportunity coming shortly afterward when Meinhardt, New London end, kicked

St. John Eleven Plays St. Mary's There Tomorrow

Catholic Teams to Meet in Non-League Game at B. D. M. Field

MENASHA — St. Mary High school football team will meet St. John High school of Little Chute tomorrow afternoon at the Butte des Morts field. The game will be called at 2:15.

The probable starting lineup for the St. Mary team will have Fred Picard and Van Dyke at ends, David Spalding at left tackle and either Lignofsky or Schwartzbauer at right tackle, Gene Walbrun and Alvin Koerner at guards, Rube Prunuske at center, Frank Schipferling at quarterback, Jim DeYoung and Earl Grade at the halfback posts and William Resch at fullback.

Others who will get into the fray include Floyd Ebben at a halfback post, Dan Tuchscherer at center, Tommy Hahn at an end and John Lux at guard.

The St. John team is not being taken lightly by the Zephyrs, particularly in view of the victory the Little Chute team scored over St. Catherine of Racine.

The St. Mary team has been hard hit at the guard positions. Harold Laux, who was expected to start at one guard post, received an internal injury in a scrimmage session and will be out of the game. Alvin Koerner has been shifted over from tackle to help relieve the guard situation as neither Gene Walbrun nor Johnnie Lux is in the best of condition.

The St. Mary band under the direction of G. W. Unser will again be out for the game and will play and parade between halves.

CHUTERS LOSE 4 REGULARS

Little Chute—Four Little Chute regulars will be on the bench when the St. John High school grid squad tangles with St. Mary, Menasha, Sunday afternoon in a Catholic conference battle at Butte des Morts field.

Roger Koehn, star quarterback, will be out with a couple of cracked ribs while Helf and VanHandel also are reported on the injured list. Cornelius will be out for three weeks with a strained shoulder muscle. The reserve squad probably will see plenty of action at Menasha as it showed strength in St. John's win at Racine last week.

Tinsley Stars for Cards in 21-14 Win

Scores Three Times for Chicago Against Washington Redskins

Washington—(AP)— Gaynell Tinsley, Louisiana State's all-American end last year, scored three touchdowns last night to give the Chicago Cardinals a 21 to 14 triumph over the Washington Red Skins in a National Professional Football league game before 22,367 spectators.

While Tinsley was the big gun of the Cardinals, another professional "freshman," Halfback Sammy Baugh, passed the Red Skins to both of their scores.

Twice in the first period Tinsley scored, once after racing down sideline 45 yards following a 10-yard pass from Russell, and later after a 40-yard run following a short toss from Grosvenor.

His final touchdown came in the last quarter. Grosvenor threw a 15-yard pass and Tinsley ran 10 yards. Baker converted by placement after each touchdown.

Baugh rifled a 30-yard pass to Malone in the first period for a score, and in the third quarter flipped an 8-yard pass to Battles who tallied after a short run.

The triumph, achieved after the flock had scored seven runs in the sixth inning, gave the Bears a purse of $4,000 and the right to meet the American association playoff winners in the little world series.

Bluejays Stopped by Milwaukee East Division

SCORE IS 21 AND 0

Downstaters Too Heavy And Backs are Too Fast

BY RANDY HAASE

MENASHA — Milwaukee East Division High school defeated the Menasha high gridders, 21 to 0, under the lights at Butte des Morts field last night before 2,500 fans. Faced by a heavier line, a swifter backfield and a more experienced team, Menasha carried the fight to the big Orange team. The Milwaukee scores came as the result of long runs and passes rather than concentrated drives.

Menasha piled up 10 first downs to 4 for Milwaukee but the fine punting of Anderson nullified the Bluejay gains and kept them deep in their own territory. Menasha gained five first downs on passing, four on rushing and one on a penalty. Milwaukee made only one first down in the first half.

Potter, state high school sprint champion, scored the first touchdown with an 80-yard jaunt. He started around end with some fine blocking and simply ran away from the Menasha backfield. Anderson kicked the point to make the score 7 to 0 at the quarter.

Jays Start Drives

The Bluejays started three drives in the first half. The first began from the 37-yard line. Milwaukee was offside, and Joseph Michalkiewicz made a first down on the 49 in two tries. He added three more. Heiss picked up two on a quarterback sneak and Malouf snared a pass for first down on the Milwaukee 36. Three plays failed to gain and Michalkiewicz punted to the 3 where the ball was downed.

Co-captain Truchan, East fullback, went on a 65 yard jaunt across the goal in the second quarter but the play was recalled when both sides were offside. Menasha then started another drive from its 21 yard line. Michalkiewicz made 6 and Drucks carried the ball to the 34 yard line and a first down in two tries. Michalkiewicz added 2 more yards and Heiss tossed a pass to Kolasinski for a first down on the Orange 45.

Menasha then pulled the prettiest play of the game for a first down on the Milwaukee 34. Heiss tossed a short pass to Osiewalski over the line who immediately tossed a lateral to Drucks who followed with a lateral to Floyd. Anderson intercepted a pass to end that rally.

Milwaukee was forced to punt and Heiss carried the ball 15 yards back to midfield to start the third drive. Kolasinski made a nice catch of a pass from Floyd for a first down on the 37-yard line. Heiss then tossed a pass to Kolasinski for eight yards but Milwaukee took the ball on downs when two passes fell incomplete.

Half Ends 7-0

Anderson made the first first down for Milwaukee with a neat 21 yard run to midfield where he fumbled. An alert swarm of Orange players fell on the ball to retain

To Knock Off the Giants Is Fondest Aim of Brooklyn

Series Opens Today and With It, the 3-Year-Old Feud

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

BILL TERRY has his fingers crossed; "Boiling Boily" Grimes has his tongue in his cheek, and Brooklyn's drooping (but still daffy) Dodgers are ready to give their all to make history repeat for dear old Gowanus.

Anything can happen now. The Giants, sporting a 3½-game edge and seemingly headed for the National league pennant, tangle with the Dodgers in a series opening today. And the Brooklyns, woefully struggling with a 9-game losing streak, would like nothing better than to beat their best-loved enemies right out of the picture.

The fact that the Dodgers fell over and played dead in 12 out of 17 previous starts with the Giants this year doesn't mean a thing. When Bill Terry asked "are the Dodgers still in this league?" three years ago, he started an all-time feud—and the Brooklyn beauties will never stop their hating.

Lot of Characters

There are a lot of new characters in the Brooklyn comedy cast since the Dodgers replied to Terry's 1934 jibe by clubbing the Giants out of the pennant, but the spirit's still the same. Once a Dodger, always a Dodger—as much a part of baseball as "strike three, yer out"—works in reverse, and the present Gowanus groaners, from Grimes down to the humblest ripe-fruit throwing fan, still nurse the grudge.

There was no change in the National league picture on yesterday's program. The Giants, travelling in from the west, had the day off. The Cubs, 3½ games behind in second place, had a date with the Cardinals, but rain in St. Louis washed it out after an inning of play.

In the American league, meantime, the Yankees began the polishing process on their big guns and defenses for the start of the world series less than two weeks off by topping the Red Sox, 5-1, in their first start as 1937 pennant winners. But they had their hands full doing it. Archie McKain stopped them with one run through the first eight innings. In the ninth, however, Archie got himself in hot water and lost the ball game, when, with the bases loaded and two out, Red Rolfe smashed a booming triple into right field that wrecked the game.

The win was the Yanks' 9th of the year and gave them a lead of 13 games over the second-place Detroit Tigers, who met up with Denny Galehouse on one of his few good days of the season and were whipped, 2-1, by the Cleveland Indians. Denny downed the Detroits with five hits.

In the only other game of the program, the Cincinnati Reds, looking like something out of any Class D circuit you can name, made four errors in one inning and were trampled by the Pirates, 8-2. Every other club in the big show had a holiday.

possession. Drucks then intercepted a pass and caught another from Floyd for a 7 yard gain as the half ended. Score: Milwaukee 7, Menasha 0.

A kick by Truchan that was downed on the 15 set Menasha on its heels in the second half. It moved down to the 26 before punting. The kick by Michalkiewicz took a bad bound and Milwaukee had the ball on the Menasha 40. Anderson carried the ball to the 19 in one play. There a penalty and two incomplete passes into the end zone helped Menasha.

Menasha was kept on the defensive. After an interchange of punts Milwaukee took the ball on the Menasha 33-yard line. Anderson tossed two passes to McKern for a touchdown and then converted the extra point. Score: Milwaukee 14, Menasha 0.

Jack Finch revived the Menasha attack in the fourth quarter. He tossed a pass to Drucks that was good for 21 yards and a first down on the Menasha 47. The forward lateral combination was tried again but ended with a fumble and Milwaukee recovered the ball on its 41.

Score Third Time

Lachenmaier tossed a pass to Anderson that was good for 43 yards and a first down on the 25. After a pass fell incomplete, Andersen made a nice run for a touchdown. He again converted. Score: Milwaukee 21, Menasha 0.

Again paced by Finch, Menasha started a final drive from its 25-yard line. He made nine yards and on the next play ran for a first down on the 44 when he found no one open for a pass. He tossed a pass to Kolasinski for six yards and then made it first down on the Orange 42.

Three more passes fell incomplete before a fourth down pass gained a few yards as the game ended. A brief scrimmage followed for possession of the ball and players and spectators crowded on the field.

In the line Rich, Konopka and McIntosh stood out for Milwaukee while Schneider, Grimm, Buksyk and Kolasinski played the entire 60 minutes for Menasha.

Green Bay Sox, Kaukauna In Title Battle Tomorrow

GREEN BAY — The Northern State league championship will be decided here Sunday afternoon when Kaukauna, first lap winners, crosses bats with the Green Sox, closing lap topnotchers, in the third game of the title series at Joannes park, 2:30 p. m.

The Bays won the opening fray of the playoff 3 to 1 at the Electric City but last Sunday night, the Electric City club evened the count by a 2 to 0 count when Baldy Eggert spanked one a mile over the left field wall.

Both clubs are keyed up to high pitch for the game as it will be played on a '60-40' basis. The series agreement provided that the gate receipts, minus expenses, be divided evenly between the clubs on the first two contests but if a third tilt was necessary, the winner should carry off the bigger slice of the cash gate.

Expect Record Crowd

The largest crowd that has witnessed a ball game here in years is expected to be on hand for the crucial combat and the Green Sox management is making arrangements to handle the overflow turnout. Kaukauna has reserved a section of the grandstand for its army of rooters.

Both teams will stand pat on their regular battle fronts and this means another hurling duel between Johnny Rowe, Green Bay's strikeout specialist, and 'Sonny' Carvenaugh, the Kaukauna curver, will be dished up on the baseball menu.

Two Northern State league umpires, Herr of Brillion, and Hooymann of Kimberly will handle the game.

The probable lineups:

Green Bay	Kaukauna
Jacobs, 2b.	cf, Bowers
Fontana, ss	rf, Vils
Clusman, 3b	ss, Powell
Zuidmulder, 1b	lf, Radder
Penzenstadler, cf	1b, Eggert

Umpires — Herr, Brillion; and Hooyman, Kimberly.

Hold League Meeting

Following the title game, the Northern State league will hold its annual "mixer" at the Beaumont hotel. The club owners meet in a business session at 5:30 p. m. and an hour later the moguls, players, umpires and fans will sit down for a banquet and rehash the season around the table plates with knives and forks.

Vice President Bernard Neumann, Two Rivers, will preside at the business session due to the illness of President Arthur Schuetze, mayor of Manitowoc, who is still confined in a Milwaukee hospital but reported improving fast.

KAW MANAGER

Howard "Booze" Bowers, above, manager of the Kaukauna team in the Northern State league, will lead his charges into their final contest of the season tomorrow against Green Bay at the Bay. It will be the final game of the 3-game playoff for the league championship. Bowers plays centerfield and bats leadoff.

with his back to the posts with the ball on the 12-yard line. The punt went askew and out of bounds on his own 11-yard stripe. Berken brought it to the 1-yard mark and Vaessen took it over.

Berken Runs 46 Yards

Pounding the line continuously, Berken broke clear shortly after the half period and ran 46 yards for the third pointer. Another 61 yards at one stretch in the third quarter brought the ball to New London's 1-yard and after switching goals for the final quarter the DePere line pushed Heesaker across for the final tally.

With success at the line Berken attempted only four passes, completing one for a gain of 12 yards in the second quarter. Poepke, directing the New London squad, saved the aerial offense for the last and shared a few tosses with his teammates. Three of eighteen passes were intercepted but nine resulted in any material gains for the Phantoms. Seven attempted passes in the second and third quarters brought the Red and White only one successful toss of nine yards.

In the final quarter the New London squad completed six tosses with Poepke and Stern throwing the successful ones. Laterals put the light backs in the clear for several long gains and once Phil Clark snared a toss from Poepke on a fake punt formation and continued another 20 yards through opposing tacklers for a 32-yard gain.

Poepke Defensive Star

Despite the odds the New London crew tackled viciously and although the charging Berken bowled over many for consistent gains of 5, 10 and 15 yards, Poepke usually was on hand to make the critical tackle. Bernard, Stern and McDaniel also stopped their share while in the line Dobberstein was most often at the bottom of the pile. Several times the New London tackles downed the Phantom backfield for a loss. From scrimmage Poepke made the better headway making 21 of the 33 yards and once getting in a 17-yard run return of a punt.

Several New London men were stretched out on the field in the clashes Harold Hayward suffered a broken nose and Evan Stern left the game with a sprained ankle.

West suffered 55 yards in penalties to 20 for New London.

COMMON SENSE CONSERVATION

By L. H. KINGSTON

GREEN BAY — The hunter who can afford to keep a pointer or setter has a big advantage over his fellow hunters who have to kick up their own birds. These big wide-ranging dogs usually cover as much territory as five men could and they point the game so that all the hunter has to do is walk up and start shooting.

L. H. Kingston

I have heard enough criticism of the use of these dogs so that I conclude that the agitation against them is quite widespread. It comes from the ordinary hunter who honestly thinks that the use of a pointing dog does not give the game enough of a chance.

There is another type of bird dog, however, with which no one can find fault. I refer to the retrievers—the Chesapeake, Labrador and the Spaniels. These dogs stay close to the hunter and their chief duty is to retrieve fallen game. In marsh and upland hunting they help spring the game, in fact, that is how the Springer Spaniel got his name, yet his chief duty is retrieving.

In marshy land or in thick upland covers it is common for a hunter without a dog to find only half of the birds he knocks down. A good retriever completely eliminates this waste at the same time giving his owner no great added advantage over fellow hunters.

I especially recommend the Springer Spaniel as a hunting companion. This dog makes a fine pet for the home, he gets along well with children and above all he loves to hunt. You will find that he adds much to the fun you get out of any trip afield with the shot gun or without it.

Band Completes 10 Outdoor Concerts On Summer Schedule

Kimberly—At the last open air concert for the season in the park Thursday evening the Community band has completed 10 outdoor concerts this summer without rain or cold weather interfering. Older band members say that this was the first summer since the early twenties that 10 concerts were played without a postponement.

On each occasion when concerts were scheduled the weather was ideal, bringing large crowds to the park. The first outdoor program began on June 3 with a second concert on June 10. During July four programs were offered by the band, with two during August and two in September.

On Thursdays program "Poet and Peasant" Overture was featured. During the other programs featured numbers included: "Morning, Noon and Night," "Songs of Scotland," "Bohemian Girl," "Popular Gems," "Sevillan Festival," "Stradella" and "Victor Herbert's Favorites."

his sweeps and inversely, he didn't give much when some of the other boys were carrying the ball.

There were plenty of indications that some of the Terrors will have to battle for their jobs next week. George Swamp turned in several neat passes, one down the center netting 25 yards and he booted the kick from placement in the last minute. He also got off a couple fair runs while Lloyd Thompson, a transfer to Appleton high, looked well on a couple of his trips with the ball. Several substitutions were made in the line, too, and the reserves showed very well.

West Drives Toward Goal

Green Bay West received the opening kickoff and immediately unleashed a running attack that looked as if it was going to chase the Terrors right out of the park. With Herlache carrying the ball on almost every try, the Wildcats would sweep to the left, then to the right, then inside the tackles and then out around again moving from their own 37 right down to the Appleton 5 where someone on the Terror eleven suddenly remembered it might be a good idea to call time and rest while the Wildcats cooled off in their drive.

The strategy helped for when play was resumed the Terrors stopped the 'Cats with only three yards on four tries, Tom Reider stopping the final thrust around his end.

The remainder of the period featured exchanges of punts although the Bays were always threatening to break loose.

On the first play of the second quarter Carpenter broke through and blocked Oliver's punt and Chartier fell on the ball on the Terror 9-yard line. Herlache carried it to the five where Appleton held on a play and then Herlache passed to Anderson who caught the ball almost on the sidelines for a touchdown. The placekick for the point was low and wide.

Passes Incomplete

Shortly thereafter Appleton moved across midfield for the first time in the game when Oliver picked up about 15 yards on a reverse that took the ball to the Bay 43. Oliver earned another first down on the 30 with another reverse. Here the Terror attack bogged and a couple passes failed. On the final try Sample tossed a long pass to Oliver but he was unable to get his hands on it.

Appleton made another threat before the period ended. Harmsen recovered a West fumble on the West 39-yard line after which Appleton gained a few yards and then Fred Oliver almost dashed away when he took a lateral from Sample on a reverse play, fumbled momentarily, and legged it to the 18-yard line before he was brought down. The threat ended when Sample was in the clear but Filz' pass was far short.

Terrors Score

West kicked off to Appleton to open the third quarter and the Terrors punted to the West 31 stripe. Here West attempted a forward pass to Chartier, a bit in the flat. As the play developed it revealed Bud Hoeppner in perfect position for an interception and he did just that taking the ball in full stride and kiting it for the goal line to score standing up. Bergner then booted a kick from placement to put the Terrors in front, 7 to 6.

When play was resumed it was obvious Appleton was another ball team both as result of the marker and a few straight words by the coaches between halves. The Bays never gained a yard the first half dozen times they had the ball, moving consistently backwards at times as the Terrors rushed in to break up the interference and throw runners for a loss. Offensively Thompson and Swamp showed some fair running for the Terrors.

In the fourth period West continued to try for gains by sweeping the ends or sliding off the tackles but the Terror line was giving little ground. Once when the Bays opened with passes, Buesing intercepted for Appleton after the ball had been batted around a bit. Nothing came of the opportunity, however.

Shortly thereafter Appleton got the ball in midfield as a result of a punt and Swamp thrilled followers of the Terrors by pitching a pass down the center to Thompson which carried the ball to the 25-yard stripe.

Again the Terrors lost the ball but when West tried to advance with it someone in the backfield fumbled and when the pile untangled Ralph Colvin was scowlingly claiming possession for the Terrors. A plunge or two failed and Swamp got back with Sample holding the ball and booted a kick from placement squarely between the uprights although kicking from a slight angle. The game ended before the ball could be put in play again.

TUMBLING the pins for three 200 games, C. Van Able with a 691 series paved the way for the 3-game win of Minnesota over Ohio in the Elks Big Ten Bowling league at the Elks alleys last night. Van Able hit games of 232, 235 and 224. Frank Fries of Wisconsin took the individual game honor with a 241 count. Chet Heinritz bowled a 613 series for Ohio which kept Minnesota hard pressed during the matches. The victors took the first game by one point and the last by ten.

Illinois remained in the league lead by one game in sweeping a 3-game series with Iowa. Jack Froom led Illinois with a 598 series and Burt Manser was tops for Iowa with a 87.

Purdue won two games from Northwestern but the one loss in the set forced it from a tie for first place in standings. John Bauer led the way for Northwestern with a 624 count. Jacobson rolled a 222 game and 615 series and Gritzmacher a 237 game and 600 series for Northwestern.

A 645 series by Fries and a 640 series by N. Weber enabled Wisconsin to trample Michigan in three games. Fries showed games of 224, 241 and 180 while Weber had counts of 232, 237 and 171. H. Brinkman was high for Michigan with an even 600 total.

Indiana disposed of Chicago in their set. Horn tipped the pins for a 578 for the victors while Koerner stopped at a 561 for Chicago.

Steadier Trend In Wheat Prices In Chicago Pits

Weakness in Liverpool Crop, Slump in Shares Bearish Factors

Chicago —(P)— Wheat prices staged a recovery today when the market developed a steadier tone in the final hour and the day's losses in deferred contracts were eliminated.

Weakness in Liverpool wheat was an unsettling factor here as was a further decline in securities. Houses with eastern connections were reported sellers early in the season. The recovery in stocks was reflected here later, however, and there were reports of a fair export demand for North American wheat.

October Corn rose 3 cents at the close.

Wheat closed 1/2 lower to 1/4 higher compared with yesterday's finish. December 1.05 3/8-1/2, May 1.06 3/4-07, and corn was 3/4-2 3/4 up, October 73 3/4, December 64 5/8-65, May 65 5/8-3/4, oats were 1/4 lower to 1/4 higher.

Irregular Tendencies In Trading on Curb

New York —(P)— Curb stocks jiggled up and down today in erratic fashion, and while some issues showed small gains, others had losses ranging up to around 4 points.

Industrials moved without definite pattern. Utilities tilted upward, and oils downward.

Up slightly in the industrial sector were Aluminum Co. of America, American Cyanamid "B," Aluminum Ltd. and St. Regis Paper.

BY VICTOR EUBANK

New York—(P)— Attempts to rally the stock market today met with further resistance.

Recoveries running to 2 points appeared shortly after the start, but leaders soon ran into sufficient offerings to halt the comeback and improvement was cancelled in many instances, or converted into declines.

The news picture provided little incentive either way.

Although some thought the market had been oversold, others remained skeptical pending a clearer outlook on business, earnings, dividends and politics. The Far Eastern war was thought to have been a minor influence.

Transfers were around 1,300,000 shares.

Bonds and commodities were uneven. Principal foreign currencies were higher in terms of dollars.

Selling flurries that occurred in the two-hour stock proceedings were attributed partly to the fact margin calls went out last night after Friday's break. While customers have until Monday to put up the cash before being sold out, there were those who decided to liquidate at once.

Steels led the turn-about in the first hour. Most slipped later.

On top the greater part of the time—some gave ground at the last —were Bethlehem Steel, National Steel, Crucible Steel, International Harvester, American Telephone, Douglas Aircraft, Kennecott, American Smelting, National Lead, Phelps Dodge, General Electric, Allied Chemical, American Can, Owens-Illinois, J. C. Penney, Liggett and Myers "B," Phillips Morris and Radio Corp.

Lower, or having difficulty making the grade, were Chrysler, General Motors, Republic Steel, American Rolling Mill, People's Gas, North American, J. I. Case, Deere, Columbian Carbon, Du Pont, Southern Pacific.

Fuehrer Shows Germany's Army To Italian Chief

went to Venice. Then Hitler stopped like an ordinary tourist in a hotel; today Mussolini stopped in a palace.

Munich's first "heils" were for the visitor wheras Venice had shouted her loudest "Vivas" not for Hitler but for Mussolini.

This holiday-making city cheered loud and long and there was all the pomp of a militaristic state to salute Mussolini.

After his and Hitler's cordial but almost matter-of-fact greeting in Munich station the two statesmen reviewed the serried ranks of German soldiers and labor troops while a stormtroop band, its big black bass drum painted with a white deaths head and crossbones, played Italian and German anthems.

Troops Guard Station

Twenty-five thousand German soldiers and work troops were lined up in front of the station and held back a throng estimated at 100,000 persons while Hitler and 16 of his highest officials went inside to meet il duce.

This was followed by a formal welcome to Munich delivered in the huge square outside the station.

Mussolini and Hitler, both smiling, walked along the huge square to review the nazi troops. The two men presented a vivid contrast—Hitler in a natty brown uniform and Mussolini in a gray-green uniform as the leader of the fascist Italian militia.

Their greeting inside the station was brief. Hitler made a quick salute in the nazi or fascist style, smiled and uttered a word of welcome. Mussolini shot out his arm in like manner and with an answering smile said: "Thank you."

While nazi girls sang the German national anthem Hitler and Mussolini walked unaccompanied across the gorgeously decorated station square.

Mussolini saw before him two huge pillars of gold and red mounted with figures of eagles. Behind the columns was a 50-foot high arch of triumph fashioned of green foliage. The station front was entirely covered with red cloth as background for the bas relief figure of an eagle perched on the nazi emblem.

FOUR MAIN POINTS

Rome —(P)— The fascist writer Virginio Gayda reported to his newspaper, Giornale d'Italia, today that the first confidential conversation between Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler in Munich established four main points:

"1. That there should be complete comprehension and merited respect for fascism and national socialism as ideals and regimes among other states where fascism and national socialism have no intentions of establishing themselves.

"Therefore, these systemized defamation programs against the two regimes and against the two responsible officers of the regimes must cease. The two regimes resolved to affirm always and decisively their value and their legitimate rights.

"2. Europe must recognize Germany and Italy have the right to technical and political parity, especially to moral parity, with every other great nation in every occasion and on every problem.

"3. There shall be revived a greater sense of comprehension and respect for the rights of life and progress of all nations; that is to say, international justice shall operate with fact, not alone with words.

"4. That all nations, in a reborn sense of solidarity seeking the best ends of European civilization, shall find a common denominator of pride in joint defense against subversion, and a common denominator of comprehension concerning their mutual peril against this subversion."

Discuss Highway Job At Wewauwega Corner

Waupaca—Buck Weinbauer of Division No. 4, state highway commission at Wisconsin Rapids, spent Thursday in the city where he met with the county highway committee, Al. Gorges and H. P. Lea, and Commissioner Charles Larson, to discuss plans for improving the corner of Main street in Weyauwega where No. 10 turns south. At this point the pavement on Main street is much lower than the intersection running south making a bump in the concrete which causes unpleasantness for automobile drivers. For several years the village of Weyauwega has been asking that the county do something to improve the situation.

City employes were busy Thursday marking off traffic lanes on the streets around the school buildings, thus adding to the safety measures being outlined for school children as they go to and from school.

Concern Is Denied Right to Build Dam

Public Service Body Holds Project Would Destroy Scenic Beauty

Madison—(P)—An application of the Mellen Granite company for a permit to build a dam across the Potato river in Iron county was denied by the public service commission today on the ground that the dam would destroy the scenic beauty of the stream.

The commission order invoked for the first time a 1929 law authorized it to preserve natural scenic beauty for public enjoyment. In the present instance, the commission said, "it appears there is no economic need for the development."

Erection of a dam, the commission ruled, would lead to destruction of vegetable and aquatic life which constitute the basic food for fish, and water falls and cataracts would disappear. The Potato river is a trout stream.

The commission decided losses could not be repaid by an increase in tax income for the town of Gurney and employment afforded by contruction and operation of a hydro plant.

The Granite company had intended to generate power for the manufacture of steel shot to be used in its quarries about 12 miles from Gurney, proposed site of the dam. The dam would have created a flowage of 20 acres.

The commission order, signed by Chairman Fred S. Hunt and R. Floyd Green, adopted the recommendations of Walter Power Examiner Adolph Kanneberg, who conducted a hearing in Hurley July 28.

Less Government Spending Promised By Nation's Chief

in his half dozen talks, gave no outward indication of his feelings in that respect.

The president has described his current trip as one of inspection rather than a "campaign" tour.

The chief executive and Mrs. Roosevelt looked forward to their stay in Yellowstone after a crowded 24 hours of speech-making in Iowa and Wyoming.

They expected to meet at the park's Mammoth Springs hotel during the day Mr. and Mrs. John Boettiger, son-in-law and daughter, and the latter's two children, Eleanor and Curtis Dall. They will remain with the party until the train reaches Seattle, their home, Tuesday night.

After leaving Casper, Wyo., the special rolled through the wintry night toward Laurel and Livingston, Mont., and Gardiner, Mont., northern entrance to the nation's scenic wonderland. Flurries of snow were in the air and the entire party changed to heavier clothing.

Sees Popular Support

At Casper after a motor trip to the restored Ft. Casper, the president told a railroad station audience that he was convinced the "rank and file of the people of this country approve the objectives of their government."

"They approve and support those who work for objectives by proposing methods to obtain the objectives, even though those methods be changed by consultation and conference," he said.

"But they do not become very enthusiastic about those who give only lip service to the objectives and do nothing towards attaining them."

Assails "Lip Service"

He told of a man he knew once in upstate New York who "gave lip service in public, but fought civic betterment in private" and added: "I am glad to say that in this country that type of person has less influence in government today than ever before in our history. We can get along in local and state and the federal government without the services of those who are good citizens only so long as it does not cost their pocketbooks anything to be good citizens."

Constitutional democracy, he said at another point, was succeeding in this country "despite the obstacles thrown in its way by a few people who, in their hearts, do not want to see democracy work. You and I, my friends, are making it work and we are going to keep on making it work."

Listing $60,000,000 in federal expenditures for Wyoming in the last four years, he said this pace was not going to be kept up "because there isn't anything like the unemployment today that existed when I first came into office."

Weekend Digest Of Business Activity In Appleton And Vicinity

New Buicks to Have Two Startling Mechanical Advances, Says Kloehn

The 1938 Buick cars will have one of the most important engine developments of the last ten years and a startling new ride control said to be as revolutionary in its advantages as knee action, according to O. R. Kloehn, local Buick dealer, who returned home today from a dealer meeting at Chicago, where dealers from this area were given their first look at the new cars.

Details of the new 1938 cars, Mr. Kloehn said, will not be announced publicly until about October 15, or about ten days prior to the annual New York Automobile Show. He indicated that the new Buicks will have exclusively two of the biggest automobile engineering advances of the 1938 year.

Several hundred Buick dealers from this area attended the meeting, which was held to launch the 1938 program of this division of General Motors and hear sales, manufacturing and advertising plans discussed by factory executives.

Outlining the 1938 Buick manufacturing program, Harlow H. Curtice, Buick president, discussed the automobile industry in terms of the outlook for the coming year, declaring that he looks for this all-important industry as a whole to equal or exceed its 1937 volume again next year. Because of the "startling" new engineering developments in the 1938 Buicks, he said he looks for Buick to obtain an even greater share of next year's volume.

Gain in 1937

"More than 220,000 Buick cars were delivered during the 1937 model year, a gain of more than 30 per cent over 1936, and increased schedules are in effect for 1938," Mr. Curtice said. "Production already is well under way on the new cars and quick deliveries will be possible."

The executive expressed himself as being "quite optimistic" regarding the labor situation for the 1938 production year.

The meeting was one of 20 such meetings held in key cities throughout the United States, at which the Buick story for the coming year was carried to the nationwide dealer organization.

W. F. Hufstader, Buick general sales manager, told the dealers of Buick's 1938 sales plans, and a presentation covering the engineering phases of the new cars was made by C. A. Chayne, chief engineer. Advertising and sales promotion plans for 1938 were discussed by Thos. H. Corpe, director of advertising and sales promotion.

MEETS CLASSMATES

Schooldays came bounding back to Barbara Stanwyck of the films when she visited New York. Several photographers remembered her as a Brooklyn classmate. The actress spent much of her time on the holiday denying reports she is engaged to Robert (Don't Call Me Beautiful) Taylor, now in England.

A man was recently convicted in England of selling cigarettes which contained coal, paper, tinfoil, lead, bristles, wood and sealing wax.

Difference of Opinion Is American Prerogative

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—To refer again to the farewell address, as you might call it, of Harry Colmery, the retiring commander of the American Legion, he said that no controversy can arise in this country without finding members of the American Legion arrayed on both sides. To extend the thought, most of the other great groups in the United States have diverse interests and convictions.

Pegler

The legion, for example, contains not only members of the A. F. of L. and the C.I.O. and of all races and religions, but Democrats and Republicans and even, as I was assured in a letter some time ago, at least one communist who angrily denied that there was anything anomalous about him.

In view of the legion's official attitude toward communism, this communist legionnaire would seem to be a museum piece on the order of a nazi brother in the B'Nai Brith or a colored klux, but no matter.

He said he was a legionnaire and a communist, too.

The C.I.O., often accused of communistic tendencies, certainly does include communists, but it also includes Catholics—and not only members but leaders—Democrats and Republicans, Protestants in the majority, and, doubtless, also some past or present members of the Ku Klux Klan. The membership of the A. F. of L. is likewise heterogenous, and here, too, as in the legion, there is hardly any controversy of national interest which would not find members arrayed on both sides.

Mr. Lewis seemed to assume a little while ago that the entire vote of the C.I.O. could be delivered for or against Mr. Roosevelt at a word from him, but he is too wise to believe that, and he certainly must know that the president does not believe it, either.

Big Groups Overlap In All Directions

The big groups overlap one another in all directions, and Americans who are conscious of racial and religious differences find themselves affiliated in other bonds all over the country, no more so in the legion than in any other groupings.

It goes without saying that the two major political parties—if it may be assumed that the Republican is still a major party—both contain members of all faiths except the politician, in which, of course, there is a sort of unity.

And the anti-semitic agitation which stirs now and again is hopelessly confused in its insistence that Jews are communistic or vice versa. This contention would ignore the wealthy Jewish merchants, manufacturers and capitalists who are as heartily hated and pasted by the communists as ever was old Andy Mellon himself or the Rockefellers or Mr. Girdler. Similarly weak is the attempt to depict the Jew as the international banker, considering the squalor and poverty in which so many Jews live in the city slums.

Time was not long ago when the vote of various foreign elements could be delivered more or less in block, but the curtailment of immigration has reduced the settlements in which they gathered and the American-born descendants, by intermarriage, have produced Americans who are not conscious of any sympathy for any other country.

Kaiser Deceived Self On Split Allegiance

As recently as 1917 the Kaiser overestimated the number of former Germans who retained some loyalty for the fatherland and greatly deceived himself as to the split allegiance of the American-born children of these people.

Thus, now, Hitler is even more seriously in error, for immigration has been scant since the war, and there is evidence that most of those who have come over in these years have no desire to import the dictatorship with them.

Consequently Americans object more to the impudence of the German government in claiming a mission to "protect" this country from the menace of communism than to any threat of serious domestic interference. There aren't enough nazis among us to do serious mischief to our form of government, but a comparative few seem like a lot when they make themselves conspicuous.

The mixture, the binding together of elements in which the grain runs contrariwise, makes for toughness in the bread to say nothing of the pleasures of being American at a time when people in other lands may be, and many of them are, executed or imprisoned for their beliefs or disbeliefs.

August Good Housekeeping Contains Valuable Information

Readers of Good Housekeeping planning to paint their houses this fall will find much useful information in an article in the August issue entitled "Speaking of Painting." The Appleton Glass & Paint company, 410 W. College avenue, recommends that Good Housekeeping readers refer back to this article.

A new trend in house painting gives preference to painting the body, trim, and window sash the same color, generally a light one. The color interest is introduced in the shutters and doors.

Before instructing the painter about what colors to use, there are several angles which should be considered; the color of the roof, the color of neighboring houses, the style of architecture, and personal preference.

There are many new paint products but, as always, the buying guide is the integrity of the manufacturer.

Paint materials represent one quarter of the cost of a paint job, and for this reason it is unwise to economize on this point. The best grades of paint last longer and cover greater areas. The other three-quarters of the job, the application, deserves equally careful consideration. The task should be entrusted to experienced painters who know how to deal with old and new work.

Window and porch screens should also be given careful attention. These require the protection of screen enamel or varnish, for even copper screens when rained on cause a corrosive wash that stains and disfigures walls.

Colors are again mentioned, and the article warns that color spread over a large surface looks quite different than on the small recion of a color chip. It recommends that the chosen colors be spread out on a large board before giving the painter the final O. K.

FLAME TRAIL

for me to go and fight it at the other end, it would never have made this headway." Tom Runyon's boasting voice floated up to them.

"Maybe," Zeke Farley was noncommittal. He raised his voice as though calling back to someone. "After you've combed this west ridge, you two may as well follow on." There was an answering halloo and he dropped his voice again. "It's a hundred to one that the fire has taken on the job of avenging Scrap Johnson's murder. That Gaynor guy'll never get out of there alive, if you ask me."

Ted pulled Kay to him, and held her close. "Listen, sweetheart, I'm going to give myself up now, and turn Josh Hastings over to them."

"No, no" Kay protested, but Ted kissed her remonstrance away.

"The sooner I'm free, the sooner we'll be together," he whispered. "Now that I know you love me, I'll put up a fight that will have to convince them of my innocence."

Kay glanced at Josh Hastings' unconscious figure. "If only we could make him confess"

The voices below grew louder and nearer. After a last lingering kiss, Ted went over to the edge of the cliff and shouted, "Zeke Farley I'm Ted Gaynor and ready to give myself up. I'll meet you a hundred yards ahead on the trail"

A confused and excited babel of voices rose from below, but without waiting for anything further, Ted hurried ahead to the spot where he saw that he could drop down to the trail.
